Harbor Pilot Prevents Pair From Escaping by Tying Plane to Boat.

NASSAU, Bahamas, March 16.—Kidnaping charges—the first in the history of the Bahamas—were placed tonight against Corroster Scott, Philadelphia attorney, and Stanley Boynton, of Springfield, Mass., by Police Major Erskin Lindop.

The charges grew out of the attempted airplane abduction of the two daughters, Eva, 6, and E. 3, who are here with his divorced wife, now Mrs. Harry Burke Boden.

Kin of Du Pons.
The children are the great-grandchildren of the late Dr. and Mrs. Alexis I. du Pont, of Delaware.

Additional charges of assaulting the children's nurse, Helen Smith, Wilmington, Del., and with carrying an unlicensed pistol were placed against Scott.

Pilot Released.
The pilot of a chartered airplane in which Boynton flew here yesterday from Miami was released. He is F. B. Miller, of Miami Beach.
Scott expressed surprise that a kidnaping charge was placed against him for trying to recover his own children. He declined further comment. The maximum penalty for kidnaping is two years imprisonment.

Playing in Park.
Major Lindop said the children were playing in a park on the waterfront with their nurse when the two men came up in a taxi. Scott placed one child in the taxi and returned for the other, the official said, but the nurse, screaming for help, clung to the child. The child was bruised in the scuffle and Scott struck the nurse in the face, he said.

Employees of the Montague hotel and bystanders rushed up, rescued the two children and placed the men to the airplane anchored near by with its engine running.

A harbor pilot, Christopher Brown, told the plane to his moor and held it until police arrived.

Scott came here Monday by the American Airways plane, Boynton and Miller arrived yesterday in a private ship piloted by Miller which was chartered by Boynton. Mr. and Mrs. Boden said the children had been here since February 1.

In Miami, Boynton's wife said she and her husband, a commercial air line pilot, came here by train last week at Scott's request and Boynton held a telephone conversation in Philadelphia Thursday night prior to their departure. Scott flew here and met them yesterday at the train.

Mrs. Boynton said her husband continued in Page 7, Column 5.

Capacity Audience Attends Constitution's Garden School

Roses To Be Discussed at Second Lecture; Special Session Tonight.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

A capacity audience of garden-minded Atlantans greeted Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown yesterday as she opened the first session of The Constitution's three-day spring garden school at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

The early morning's inclement weather was no barrier to the steady stream of gardeners who filed into the club auditorium to hear the noted garden expert lecture on "Summer Flowering Bulbs," the subject chosen for the first lecture, for, as Mrs. Crown pointed out, "bulbs planted now in the spring will bloom in the summer."

"Roses" will be the subject discussed at today's session which begins at 10 o'clock. Dr. L. C. Fischer, noted authority on the culture of the blossoms, will introduce Mrs. Crown. Doors of the club auditorium will open at 9 o'clock. Preceding the lecture there will be a fashion show staged by Sears, with models presenting a revue of practical fashions for spring and summer. There will also be a presentation of a film in technicolor presented by H. G. Hastings Company, which will depict the various stages of floral and foliage beautification of grounds surrounding a modern home. After the lecture there will be movies shown of gardens and scenes of historic Williamsburg, presented through Duffee-Freeman. There will also be musical selections by Hermes Jacobs, popular young Atlanta music teacher.

As a new feature of the garden school courses there will be a special session this evening at 7:30 o'clock when Mrs. Crown will

Methodists from all parts of north Georgia gathered here yesterday for a series of three revival meetings as plans went forward for a new drive to block the proposed merger of the three branches of the church.

More than 700 members of the conference gathered at the First Methodist church to observe the 200th anniversary of the conversion of John Wesley, founder of Methodism, and to hear church leaders plead for a return to "the old-time religion."

Meanwhile, the executive committee of the Layman's Organization for Preservation of the Southern Methodist Church announced plans for meetings next week to fight the unity proposal.

Roosevelt's Famous Phrases Recalled by His Own Story

As a maker of memorable phrases, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose own story of the New Deal will be published exclusively in Georgia by The Constitution, beginning March 23 is noteworthy among the nation's chief executives.

The writings by the President to appear in The Constitution consist of an authorized advanced publication of notes and comments contained in five forthcoming books he has completed, "The Public Papers and Addresses of Franklin D. Roosevelt." The commentaries will be presented in the form of daily articles.

This literary work by the President recalls the unusual number of celebrated expressions he has uttered, many of which have become a part of our contemporary American language.

Here are a few:

"The New Deal." "The forgotten man." "The more abundant life," used in his first presidential campaign.

TORNADOES' TOLL MOUNTS TO 22 IN EIGHT STATES

Homes of at Least 1,000
Persons Believed
Destroyed by Storms;
Other Damage Heavy.

ONE DEATH LISTED AT FORT BENNING

Alabama Rivers Rise Threatening Repetition of 1929 Flood Disaster.

By the Associated Press.

The dead in a series of trans-Mississippi tornadoes numbered 22 last night. In sections of eight states there was heavy damage.

The storms struck Tuesday, following upon an erratic but generally northward course, and yesterday the list of casualties rose as men searched all day through the far-scattered ruins.

Illinois Hit Hardest.
The Belleville, Ill., area was hardest hit. There nine died. Eight were killed in the region of Kennett, Mo., four in Alabama and one in Georgia, at Fort Benning, where a man was electrocuted when a wire was blown down. Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas and Iowa, other states affected, reported no deaths.

There were unofficial estimates that the homes of at least 1,000 persons were destroyed. Much of the affected area was semi-isolated farming country.

High winds and heavy rains followed the storms in some areas.

Alabama Rivers Rise.
Meanwhile, swollen to mighty proportions by nine inches of rains, southeast Alabama's rivers tonight threatened a repetition of the disaster of 1929, when they covered thousands of farms and did millions in damage.

State highway patrolmen were sent speeding with warnings to communities along the Pea, Coconuh and Choclawatchee rivers. Governor Bibb Graves sped them on the mission, on advice of the weather observer at Pensacola, Florida.

The Conecuh stood at 44 feet tonight at River Falls, seven feet above the danger level, and the weather observer at Pensacola forecast a crest of 50, only six inches below the record stage in the disastrous 1929 floods.

Levee Breaks at Elba.
A break in the levee at Elba, a heavy sufferer in the 1929 disaster, left that town at the mercy of the Pea river and its tributaries, Whitewater and Beaver Dam creeks.

Mayor L. P. Mullins said Beaver Dam creek washed out a section of the newly built levee and "there is nothing we can do" about repairing it before the predicted crest of 35 feet on the Pea tomorrow.

Mullins said damage would result from a stage of 35 feet, but expressed confidence the river would not go that high. The record stage of 43.5 feet was set in 1929, when water was 15 feet deep in the business area. The mayor estimated levee damage at $30,000 but said no streets or buildings had been flooded.

Kidnaper of Ross Is Sentenced To Die

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP)—A federal court jury tonight condemned John Henry Seadlund to die in the electric chair for the $50,000 ransom kidnaping of Charles S. Ross, Chicago manufacturer.

The jury answered "yes" to the question "do you the jury recommend that the defendant, John Henry Seadlund, alias Peter Anders, be punished by death?"

Their verdict was reached at 6:15 p. m. It was announced 20 minutes later after Judge John P. Barnes, attorneys and Seadlund, arrived in court.

Saved Life in Tornado by Hiding in Dresser Drawer

Scenes like the above accompanied the series of tornadoes which swept eight states Tuesday. Here is 11-year-old Nellie Lambert, of Blytheville, Ark., crawling from under her home which was blown to the ground. Autrie saved her life by crawling into a dresser drawer as the tornado approached, and remaining there until the storm blew over.

COMMONS BACKS PREMIER ON SPAIN

Britain Warns Nazis To Scrupulously 'Obey' As- surances on Czechs.

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—Britain today thrust the issue of peace in Europe squarely before Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

She and France particularly were active in a sudden wave of war fears that involved most countries of Europe.

Following a cabinet meeting in which the foreign situation was reviewed, opposition in the house of commons was angered by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's refusal to declare openly the government's policy in the European crisis. This forced a foreign affairs debate in which Chamberlain won approval for his "keep out of Spain" policy. The vote was 317 to 141 on a parliamentary maneuver to censure the government by adjourning.

Attlee Opens Debate.
Clement R. Attlee, Laborite and leader of the official opposition, drew the cheers of his backers as he opened the debate with the question:

"Does anyone doubt that the assistance of Hitler in the conquest of Spain is part of the price for Mussolini's betrayal of Austria?"

Chamberlain in reply accused the Laborite of using "hard, provocative words."

"It is tempting to reply in kind," he said, "... but the international situation is so grave I have no heart for interchanges across this table or reproaches and accusations of betrayal."

Attlee had asked: "What will be

European Crisis Swings Between Border Dangers

The pendulum of events in war-frightened Europe swung yesterday from the center of activity in Paris in a menacing arc that tipped to Spain on the one side and the Polish-Lithuanian border on the other.

In this situation Britain took her first positive step by giving France assurance of the support of England's fleet in the event French communication lines to North Africa should be imperilled by a German-Italian supported victory in Spain.

In return France agreed, therefore, not to send her troops to the aid of the Loyalists, harassed by General Franco, in response to the plea made by Premier Nergin during a flying visit to Paris on Tuesday.

Barcelona Attacked.
No sooner had this arrangement become known than General Franco's insurgent airplanes bombed the Loyalist capital at Barcelona for three hours.

Other developments in the European crisis included:

1. Tiny Lithuania was gripped by fears that Poland and Germany would seize upon a border incident in which one Polish soldier was killed as the pretext to settle a dispute that has smoldered since the signing of the World War peace treaty.

2. Mussolini in a broadcast to the nation approved Hitler's conquest of Austria, but, with an eye on the Brenner Pass bordering Austria, warned "we will not discuss our frontiers, we will defend them."

3. The Czech problem was again thrust to the forefront when a Czech-German member of parliament arose and warned the senate to change Praha's foreign policy "before it is too late."

Sobered Vienna Awakens To Find 'the Party Is Over' As Stern Nazi Terror Ends Four Days of Ecstasy

Nazis Regiment Theaters, Money, Police and Schools.

By A. D. STEFFERUD.

VIENNA, March 16.—(AP)—Austria's Nazi masters swept away the last traces of her sovereignty today with the efficiency of a new broom.

Customs, institutions, men vanished. Nazi regimentation appeared and with it worry, rumor, denunciations and sober second thoughts—less tangible, but no less real than the control of theaters, money, schools, police and hospitals.

Major Emil Fey, anti-Nazi and iron man of the Dollfuss regime, was found dead in his home. Beside him were the bodies of his wife and 20-year-old son. Newspapers said he killed them and then shot himself.

The newspaper Neues Wiener Abendblatt reported the arrest of Louis Rothschild, banker member of the great banking family.

The official gazette carried a long list of "traffic accidents."

Several correspondents and other foreigners fled. Others thought of fleeing and some who remained heard hints they would not be welcomed much longer.

Foreigners pinned flags of their countries to their lapels for protection.

Jewish stores were placarded. Trucks drove up to them and carted away clothes, perfume, shoes, hats, soap and tooth paste.

Viennese police took the oath to Hitler before Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, now their commander.

Courses in National Socialism opened. "Heil Hitler" was made the official greeting in all schools. Five big Viennese theaters closed. Brown-shirted Austrian "SA" troops were being reorganized with Arthur Seyss-Inquart, governor of

Blum Sees Grave Danger

PLEDGE IS LAID BEFORE CABINET

London Acts After Threat To Lift Barriers to Mu- nitions for Barcelona.

PARIS, March 16.—(AP)—Britain's promise to take concerted naval action with France in the Mediterranean if France's North African communications are threatened by Italian and German forces in Spain was laid before the French cabinet tonight by Premier Leon Blum.

The premier told the ministers that in return for the British pledge, France had agreed to keep her frontier with government Spain closed to men and munitions.

Previously Blum had sent an urgent appeal to Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain to join in an immediate effort to bring about an armistice in Spain.

Would Aid Spain.
French officials had said that unless Britain joined at once in such an effort France would have "no alternative" but to open her frontier to aid for the hard beset Spanish government.

Indications that government armies had stopped the Insurgent drive toward the Mediterranean, at least temporarily, were cited by the French premier as justification for France keeping her frontier shut.

Barcelona, the Loyalist capital, was subjected to a three-hour aerial bombardment tonight as insurgents learned of the French agreement to stay out of Spain.

France's war fears reached the highest pitch since the World War. The government was representing as viewing the reported arrival of fresh Italian and German troops for the Insurgent armies as a grave threat to French security.

Reinforce Garrisons.
Officials indicated the least the cabinet could do would be to reinforce strongly French garrisons along the French-Spanish frontier.

The Paris press displayed reports that squadrons of German warplanes, both bombers and fighters of the latest types, and additional units of German artillery had reached Spain and were aiding Generalissimo Franco's smash toward the Mediterranean.

Two French destroyers arrived at Port Vendres to strengthen that

LAMA CARAVAN TO TIBET HALTED

Dalai's Supporters Refuse
Entrance to Panchen's Guards.

SHANGHAI, March 16.—(P)—A weird caravan which for months has been carrying the Panchen

Lama's body across the "roof of the world" toward forbidding Tibet was halted today at Kanze by bickering between his partisans and those of the late Dalai Lama. From Tachienlu, on the Tibetan border some 1,500 miles west of Shanghai, came reports that the Dalai Lama's supporters offered to carry the Panchen Lama's body to sacred Lhasa, but refused to permit his 1,000 Lamas, retainers and bodyguards to enter Tibet. The procession bearing the Panchen Lama's body, wrapped mummylike in sitting position, has been traveling at a rate of 10 miles a day for months between Jekundo and Kanze.

WITNESS FOR BURNS 'HELD' FOR INQUIRY

Atlanton on Trial in Macon Denies Part in Hi-Jacking.

MACON, March 16.—(P)—Solicitor Charles H. Garrett today asked the court to detain one of three defense witnesses from Guthrie, Ky., who testified that "Pee Wee" Burns, charged with robbery, was in Guthrie at the time Mr. and Mrs. Peter Modena were hi-jacked here.

Superior Judge W. A. McClellan refused to place the witness, L. E. Gooch, in custody of an officer, but had him subpoenaed by the state and released him under promise he will be back in court at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The solicitor said he wished to hold the witness pending an overnight investigation of the witness' whisky business in Guthrie. Gooch said he was an operator of the Gooch Distributing Company and that Burns, from Atlanta, was one of his customers.

Gooch, L. E. Dorris, who works at the whisky place for Gooch, and V. L. Fox, operator of a Guthrie filling station, all testified that Burns was in Guthrie when the Modenas were hi-jacked and robbed of $3,600 worth of bonded whisky, cash and jewelry here in July, 1936.

Burns went to trial for the offense the second time on Monday. He was convicted in December, 1936, and sentenced to serve ten years, but later won a new trial.

In an unsworn statement to the jury this afternoon, Burns denied all connection with the hi-jacking and said he was in Guthrie to buy whisky from Gooch Company at the time.

GUERRILLA RAIDS REPULSE JAPANESE

Chinese Reported To Have Recaptured Linfen in Counteroffensive.

SHANGHAI, March 16.—(P)—Chinese guerrilla raids and smashing counteroffensive attacks appeared today to have pushed the Japanese back in several sectors and stopped them in the others.

From Shansi province, which the Japanese overran in a big offensive a week ago, came reports that the Chinese had recaptured Linfen and were making strong attacks on Chaocheng and Kwoh-sien. These cities are in the southern part of the province.

In northwest Shansi the Chinese said they were sweeping through a triangular area between Koku, Paotse and Kolan where desperately resisting Japanese were trying to hold their ground.

Chinese successes in the Koku sector were said to have eliminated danger of the Japanese forging across the Yellow river there and invading Shensi province to the west.

The Chinese reported hand-to-hand fighting along the Tientsin-Pukow railway some 50 miles north of Suchow, where the Japanese have started a new offensive against the Lunghai railway.

Flanking attacks along the Yi river farther east were said to have given the Chinese other victories. They were reported to be threatening Kokow, 30 miles north of Lini.

SUSPECT CONVICTED AS 'BOOTLEG BOSS'

Arthur M. Pope Fights 2-
Year Term on Liquor Possession Charge.

An Atlanton was sentenced to 24 months in a work camp in Fulton criminal court yesterday on two counts of possessing liquor, after two youths who were caught with the whisky testified they were "liquor runners" hired by the defendant.

Arthur M. Pope was charged with possessing 54 gallons of liquor on Stewart avenue, Hapeville, last July, and 21 gallons at Butler and Ellis streets last September. After the jury found him guilty and Judge Jesse M. Wood had imposed a 12-month sentence on each count, Pope made an appeal bond of $2,000.

Herbert Landers and A. A. Pugh, who were arrested in actual possession of the contraband, testified for the state that Pope was their employer and had promised to "take care of us" in case of arrest. Both face trial on charges growing out of their arrest.

Pope is under indictment on a charge of assaulting W. J. Mode Jr., of a West Peachtree street address, last February, with intent to murder.

ATLANTANS TO HEAR INSURANCE DIRECTOR

Major Roger B. Hull, managing director and general counsel of the National Association of Life Underwriters, will speak at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon before members of the Atlanta Life Underwriters' Association in Rich's tea room on "A Business Man's Philosophy."

Formerly assistant attorney general of Porto Rico, and special counsel to the Insular Public Service Commission, Major Hull has been special assistant attorney general of the United States, and general attorney for the New York Railways Corporation. He has served the National Association of Underwriters since 1926.

Taxes Tax Capitol Forces Working Overtime

With approximately $1,500,000 paid in income taxes and other state levies, the revenue department was "swamped" with work Tuesday night and yesterday. This photograph was taken as the department's office force worked extra hours compiling and filing returns and payments.

Miss Inez Copeland (left), and Miss Kate Hutcheson, secretaries to the revenue department, are shown classifying a large number of returns before sending them to the file room.

Sam Pierce, superintendent of the capitol building, had to stay on the job as long as the revenue force remained on the job. Pierce, standing, is shown while away his time with R. Q. Collins over a checker board.

Intangible tax reports did their share to help flood the department. Miss Laura Powell and Miss Edith Carter are perusing a number of intangible reports, new to many Georgia taxpayers.

Man Offers Eye To Save Infant's

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 16.—(P)—A Lansdale, Pa., mother, fighting to save the eyesight of her infant son, today was offered the aid of a Detroit man, who volunteered to sacrifice his right eye that the boy might escape blindness.

Unless little Roger Laverty, the boy, can have a cornea of the right type grafted over his defective eyeball, doctors have told his mother he is doomed to go through life sightless.

In an effort to save her son's vision, Mrs. Laverty offered to undergo an operation to transplant her cornea. But today Ed W. Detrick, of Detroit, wrote to Governor Earle, of Pennsylvania, asking Mrs. Laverty be spared the operation, and volunteering to give his own eye instead.

U. S. INCOME TAX RECORDS SMASHED

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(P)—Record-breaking income tax collections brightened the federal budget picture tonight. The Treasury announced the unprecedented sum of $615,947,718 was collected in the first 15 days of March, an increase of 18 per cent over the similar period last year.

If this rate of payment is maintained to the end of the fiscal year, the Treasury will wind up with about $170,000,000 more income tax money than was predicted in President Roosevelt's January estimates.

Collections by states for the first 15 days of March, 1937, and 1938, include:

HITLER SUMMONS REICH PARLIAMENT

Fuehrer Rushes Back to Berlin on Reports of New Crisis.

BERLIN, March 16.—(P)—Adolf Hitler came back to Berlin in triumph tonight and suddenly called the Reichstag to meet Friday to hear "a declaration."

A Lithuanian-Polish crisis at Germany's back door, Czech-German warnings to the Czech parliament, the Spanish war situation, and hurried French and British conferences persuaded Hitler to return to Berlin earlier than he had planned.

German army circles in Berlin had said Hitler hurried home because he had received word that an ultimatum from Warsaw expiring late today, had been issued.

Hitler canceled plans to speak in a number of Austrian cities because of the gravity of European affairs.

When he ordered the reichstag convened, there was no mention of his purpose except an announcement that there would be a "declaration by the government of the Reich."

Hero's Welcome.

Hitler was accorded a hero's welcome when he returned to Berlin as Fuehrer of 74,000,000 Germans in a nation expanded to include Austria.

An honor guard of infantrymen met the special plane which brought him from Munich. Berlin was decked with garlands and an ocean of swastika flags.

In the evening, in response to insistent demands from the Berlin throng, he appeared on the chancellery balcony and declared: "You can readily imagine how happy I feel to see all German-ness solidly behind me."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN ACTS SO FAST ON

"Nervous Headaches"

Two way action needed to ease pain and quiet nervousness for relief of this most common type of headache. Speed essential for best results.

Insist on the genuine Bayer Aspirin—accept no other

The inexpensive way to ease headaches—if you want fast results—is with Bayer Aspirin. The instant the pain starts, simply take 2 Bayer tablets with half glass of water. Usually in few minutes relief arrives.

Bayer tablets are quick-acting because they disintegrate in a few seconds—ready to start their work almost immediately after taking.

It costs only 2¢ or 3¢ to relieve most headaches—when you get the new economy tin. You pay only 25 cents for 24 tablets—about 1¢ apiece.

Make sure to get the genuine by insisting on Bayer Aspirin.

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating. This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

Officials 'Go to Town' on Barbecue Celebrating New State Highway

They're "going to town" on barbecue, celebrating the opening of State Highway Route No. 7 through Fort Valley, an occasion that drew approximately 200 representatives from 17 counties to the Peach county city yesterday. Eating, from left to right, are Judge M. C. Moseley, ordinary of Peach county; Miss Emily Woodward, of Vienna;

COMMISSIONER NAMED.

DAWSON, March 16.—The Terrill county grand jury, in a special session today, elected George W. Johnston, of Sasser, as a member of the board of county commissioners to succeed his brother, Alma E. Johnston, who died two weeks ago. The new commissioner, mayor of Sasser, was elected for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1939.

LEADERS CELEBRATE HIGHWAY OPENING

Rivers Is Special Guest at Barbecue; Change to U. S. Route Is Urged.

By LUKE GREENE, Constitution Staff Writer.

FORT VALLEY, March 16.—More than 200 leaders from 17 Georgia counties joined here today in urging the State Highway Board to designate state highway Route No. 7, which runs from Barnesville to Perry through Fort Valley, as U. S. Route No. 41.

State senators and representatives, county commissioners, mayors, editors and civic leaders from cities and towns along the route were among those attending a barbecue celebrating the opening of the route. Governor Rivers was special guest and principal speaker.

Change Requested. A change in the United States route, which now goes through Macon, was recently requested by the National Association of State Highway Officials, but the State Highway Board has failed to designate the new route.

Leaders at the meeting pointed out that the short route from Barnesville to Perry, by way of Fort Valley, would save approximately 17 miles and one hour's driving. Governor Rivers said he was leaving it to the highway department to decide which of the two routes should be followed. "I have endeavored to appoint good men to this department," he said, "and I am leaving it to them to exercise their best judgment based on the merits of the two routes. No one man should assume the power of dictating his whim as to what should be done."

Complimenting the group on their enthusiasm, the Governor said, "I think you are justified in pressing your cause as vigorously as you can."

He pointed out that Georgia is trying to follow a policy of merit in its road-building program, declaring that "the time has come when counties should not be required to swap votes in election in order to get good roads."

Urged to Take Interest. Urging Georgians to take an interest in rural roads, he said all sections can look forward to a greater traffic and visitation than Georgia has ever before known.

"We are developing our beauty spots and our recreational areas in order to attract tourists, and we must put our shoulders to the wheels to develop the whole state," explaining that it is more valuable to have tourists stop in Georgia cities, rather than just pass through. He urged people throughout the state to co-operate in the program to attract visitors.

The Governor cited instances of Georgia's recent progressiveness and declared "I believe Georgia is more united behind a program of progress than it has ever been before."

He commended the three Atlanta newspapers for their united efforts in seeking to improve the state, as well as other papers throughout the state. "When you see three papers united to make living conditions happier, it is most heartening to those who are struggling for a more progressive state," he said.

Counties represented at the barbecue were: Macon, Pike, Lowndes, Marion, Cook, Tift, Turner, Crisp, Dooley, Houston, Crawford, Monroe, Lamar, Spalding, Clayton and Fulton.

Leaders at 'Cue. Among leaders attending were Senator C. A. Holmes of Culloden, Senator W. D. Aultman of Bryon, Wiley G. Milam, representative from Spalding county; Miss Emily Woodward, of Vienna; Horace Caldwell, of Valdosta; E. T. Elliott, of Griffin; M. L. Dunn, commissioner of Pike county; H. A. Wheeling, of Cordele; J. C. Hunt, of Valdosta; E. C. Law, of Griffin; Judge M. C. Moseley, of Fort Valley; Mrs. Nora Lawrence Smith, of Ashburn; W. E. Green, of Fort Valley, chairman of the celebration; E. S. Harrison, representative from Crawford county; John H. Jones, Fort Valley editor; Dr. V. C. Daves, representative from Dooley county; Mrs. Bernice Jones, of Ashburn; H. Huckabee, Fort Valley banker, and W. G. Brigandine, of Fort Valley, who served as master of ceremonies.

PAIR ESCAPES FIRE IN TWO-STORY LEAP

Flames Started by Lightning Destroy $10,000 Home Near Decatur.

A 55-year-old man and his wife early yesterday had to jump from the second floor of their home as flames started by lightning razed the structure, causing $10,000 damage.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Major were injured when they dropped from the porch roof. The home is located on North Druid Hills road, between Clairmont avenue and La Vista road, two miles from Decatur. Both were taken to Emory University hospital.

Mrs. Major suffered from a broken right foot and from shock. Her condition was reported "good" at the hospital last night.

Mr. Major, suffering scratches, was treated and dismissed. The Armour & Company salesman said last night he had arisen about 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning and was walking into the kitchen downstairs when he saw lightning strike a tree near the home. He started upstairs to awaken his wife. The electric lights would not work. He experienced a "choking sensation," he said, and when the couple started downstairs they found the ground floor in flames.

FAT STOCK CHAMPION BRINGS 35C A POUND

MOULTRIE, March 16.—(P)—The grand champion steer of the second annual Moultrie fat cattle show brought 35 cents a pound today at the auction block, the same peak as last year's champion.

Frank Gibbs, Tifton livestock grower, owned the Hereford champion, which weighed 1,100 pounds.

The reserve champion, owned by Willie Bailey, of Berrien county, brought his owner 15 cents a pound, a half-cent more than the purchase price of the reserve champion in 1937.

Britain Promises Paris Naval Aid If Mediterranean Line Is Periled

France, in Exchange, Agrees To Close Spanish Border to Men and Munitions—An Alternative, She Warned London, That Was the Only One.

Mediterranean naval base, which already has sent two destroyers to Barcelona for refugees.

Guards for Refugees.

The prefect for the eastern Pyrenees arrived at the port with 100 mobile guardsmen assigned to escort refugees, when they arrive, to a temporary camp at the nearby village of Collioure.

Although the Puigcerda frontier station was closed by Spanish government authorities, the border still was open at Cerbere, on the French side, to normal traffic. Several truckloads of food sent Spanish workers by French Leftist unions crossed.

Preparedness went ahead to secure France's Pyrenees border and full freedom of communications in the Mediterranean.

Britain's promises were brought to the foreign office by Sir Eric Phipps, the British ambassador.

Peril to Communications.

Blum had requested that Britain take concerted action with France to ward off the danger which he declared the great number of Italian and German troops in Spanish Insurgent ranks constituted for French and British communications in the Mediterranean.

France and Soviet Russia, meanwhile, agreed that both would fight to defend Czechoslovakia if she were attacked.

Blum's communication to Cham-

Gas Masks Supplied British Royal Castle

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—Windsor Castle's defenses against air raids were completed today.

The turreted castle, legendary site of King Arthur's Knights of the Round Table, has received a full supply of gas masks for protection against foreign attack.

Anti-gas chambers have been installed and tested, including those for King George, Queen Elizabeth and their two princesses.

berlain was dispatched late last night.

With the Spanish appeal, sent through Ambassador Phipps, the French government also declared there was "not a minute to lose" for the taking of a concerted Anglo-French stand in regard to Czechoslovakia.

Both Blum and Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour, in talks with the British ambassador, pointed out that prolonged occupation of Spanish territory as well as of the Balearic Islands by Italians and Germans constituted just as grave a threat for Britain as for France.

Informed sources said France and Russia planned to send bombing and fighting planes to Czechoslovakia if Chancellor Hitler decided to use force.

The planes would act as a buffer for the Czech army during mobilization.

Russia was said to have informed France that Russian railway lines recently had been linked to those of Czechoslovakia through the Rumanian railway system.

Stephan Osusky, Czech minister in Paris, speaking at a luncheon of the Anglo-American Press Association, declared Czechoslovakia with her 3,500,000 Germans, expected a "decisive test" soon in her effort to maintain independence.

He said he could not predict the result "unless France and England are willing to help," asserting Czechoslovakia was "unable" to assume the entire burden in face of the possible menace of German expansion eastward after the Austro-German union.

Jacob Suritz, Soviet ambassador to France, called on Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour at the Quai d'Orsay and delivered assurances similar to those delivered by the Soviet ambassador to Praha—that Russia would fight for the defense of her Czech ally.

Paul-Boncour replied to the assurances with a promise that France too would fight in the same cause.

Hitler, Fuehrer of a realm expanded bloodlessly last week by his Austrian coup, had proclaimed himself the "protector" of all German peoples on Germany's borders in his February 20 reichstag speech.

The French foreign minister also talked with the Spanish government ambassador to London, who was said to have informed Paul-Boncour of the new resistance put up by Barcelona's troops in the Caspe section of eastern Spain.

France Stronger.

The French franc strengthened against the United States dollar and the British pound at the end of today's bourse trading after the exchange fund went into operation to buy francs. The franc closed at 32.77 to the dollar and 162.75 to the pound.

In the midst of France's financial and international crisis talks continued among political leaders seeking to build a stronger "national safety" government to replace the new People's Front cabinet of Socialist Blum.

Political quarters indicated Blum would make a ministerial declaration tomorrow in the chamber and senate, this to be followed by debate.

The premier was expected to ask for a vote of confidence only in the chamber, fearing that a senate vote might be an upset.

Atlanta high school students jammed recorder's court last night at hearing at which Jack Rapaport (4), department store manager, was found not guilty of charges of disorderly conduct and resisting an officer. The photograph was taken at start of hearing and shows (1) Recorder John L. Cone; (2) J. H. Smith, police investigator, who arrested Rapaport at store last Friday; (3) Mrs. J. W. Baxter, police-woman who accompanied Smith to the store, and Frank A. Hooper (5), counsel for Rapaport, who was arrested during investigation of a recreation hall at the store operated for high school students. The hearing centered about heated words which followed police entrance.

Pendulum of Dangerous Events Swings in Broad Arc Over Europe

Austria, as chief. The Alpinist Association, owner of many mountain ski huts, was being incorporated in the Hitler youth organization.

A new Nazi commissioner was had given Lithuania an ultimatum. This was denied by an official spokesman in Warsaw.

Hitler's return to Berlin was stated to have been hastened by this development.

Lithuanians feared they might feel the might of a Polish-German steamroller since they lie in the way of an anti-Soviet Baltic bloc.

Britain and France made representations to Warsaw against hasty action.

The fact that German naval units at Swinemunde, on the Baltic sea, 300 miles west of Lithuania, were reported under steam led to speculation that Germany might go to Poland's assistance if Russia took up Lithuania's cause.

In such an event, Poland, if victorious over Lithuania with German help, would probably return Lithuania Memel to Germany, it was said. Nazis have said repeatedly that Memel was a German city.

Vienna Wakes Up.

In Vienna, citizens who had been on an "emotional jag" for four days during Hitler's visit found that the "party was over" and looked with mixed emotions at cold reality. Major Emil Fey, anti-Nazi, his wife and son were found dead. Newspapers said that Fey had committed suicide. The list of "traffic accidents" grew alarmingly, and the firm hand of Nazi regulation evidenced itself in many ways.

Another repercussion of Austria's dissolution into Germany was echoed in Washington. The absorption probably will reduce Austro-American trade sharply, Commerce Department officials said. Austro-American commerce totaled almost $22,000,000 last year.

Belgium in Arming.

Meanwhile, Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Henry Spaak reaffirmed his nation's determination to defend her territory and the government's foreign policy of preserving liberty while maintaining good relations with all neighbors. He expressed regret over the way Germany absorbed Austria. He said the League of Nations remained a noble ideal but was "a sick person needing great care," and that small nations like Belgium had to take that fact into consideration.

Another small nation, Sweden, decided yesterday immediately to strengthen her national defenses. Premier Per Albin Hansson told parliament considerable additional defense credits would be asked.

De Valera Sends St. Patrick Day Greetings to U.S.

By EAMON DE VALERA,
Prime Minister of Ireland.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and the New American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

DUBLIN, March 16.—(By Wire)—On behalf of the Irish nation, on the eve of the national festival, I send greetings to all Ireland's children and Ireland's friends in the United States.

I know they will remember us, as we remember them.

I hope to have the pleasure of addressing a large number of them over the radio on St. Patrick's Day.

TERROR WIPES OUT AUSTRIA'S ECSTASY

named to the national library—one of the Hapsburgs' and Vienna's greatest prizes.

Disband Women's Groups. All women's organizations were liquidated.

Every Dollfuss Platz—named for the Austrian chancellor who was assassinated in a Nazi putsch in 1934—was renamed for Hitler.

The Max Reinhardt plaza, in front of the Salzburg festival theater, was no more. The signs were taken down today.

Reinhardt, a Jew, had been the guiding spirit of the festival since its rebirth 17 years ago. It was learned he will not direct at Salzburg the two presentations—Jedermann and Faust—which have been an integral part of the festival for a decade.

The two state theaters—the Opera and Burg—and three private playhouses were purged. Commissioners, it was announced, were being named to seven musical organizations including the world-famous Vienna Symphony Orchestra.

Ecstasy Is Over.

The four days of patriotic ecstasy were over. Austrian Germans began looking for the promised benefits of Nazidom. Some firms raised pay in expectation of better times. Textile factories boomed on orders for Nazi uniforms.

The National Bank announced immediate payment of funds owed to Austrians by Germans, freed by the dissolution of the border. Exportation of timber was prohibited because Germany expects to absorb most of it.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, arranged for withdrawal of the Austrian schilling from circulation. The German reichsmark will be German-Austria's money.

Foreign diplomats still had not been told officially that the government of Schuschnigg and President Wilhelm Miklas was of the past.

Hapsburgs Flee. But Schuschnigg was said to be a lonesome, tired man behind a guard surrounding his Belvedere palace. Again members of the House of Hapsburg, which ruled Austria for more than a thousand years, were in flight.

And all that was left for Austria to answer "yes" in a plebiscite April 10, to the question: "Do you acknowledge our Fuehrer Hitler and thereby agree to reunion of Austria with the German reich (government) accomplished March 13?"

Almost unanimous approval was predicted.

MANAGER OF STORE CLEARED OF CHARGES

called on the schedule of the 4:30 o'clock session of court.

J. Charlie Murphy, assistant city attorney, handled the prosecution and Frank A. Hooper was counsel for Rapaport, who lives at 1050 Ponce de Leon avenue. Rapaport pleaded not guilty.

Basis for Trial.

At the outset, Murphy told the court the case would be tried solely on the specific charges of disorderly conduct and resisting an officer in line of duty, and that testimony relative to the complaints would not be considered. This was agreed upon by Hooper and Recorder Cone.

Smith was the first witness. He recounted that he went to the store with the policemen, and, in the elevator, when they had ascended to the third floor, the negro elevator operator told them "no one is permitted to the fourth floor without a permit."

"I told the elevator boy we were the law, making an investigation," said Smith, "and he took us down to the first floor, saying we would have to see the manager."

Heated Words.

Continuing, Smith said he and Rapaport had heated words on the first floor, and the party then proceeded to the fourth floor. There, Smith said, he saw several students playing ping pong, others dancing, and a few seated on a bench against a wall.

The policemen asked to inspect the restroom, and they moved in that direction when an elevator-load of students came out to the floor. Smith said to Rapaport, "This doesn't look like they have tickets."

More heated words followed, and a scuffle ensued, during which Rapaport's coat and vest were torn. Mrs. Baxter and Mrs. Hewell corroborated Smith's testimony, and said they heard Rapaport use a curse word.

Rapaport testified that he was standing by the elevator when Smith and the policemen came down to see him. He said he explained to Smith that students were only admitted by cards, and that Smith "ought to be proud we are so strict about letting people up on the floor."

Rapaport also stated that he told the officers cards are issued only to students with high scholastic standing, and that they are countersigned by school principals. He added that permission for the recreation hall had been granted by the board of education and had met with approval from various school officials.

Denies Threats.

Rapaport said Smith manhandled him, without cause, and that he told him, "If I'm under arrest, you don't have to treat me like this. I'll go along peacefully with you." He denied either striking the officer or making any threatening gestures toward him.

E. P. Parker, who acted as chaperon on the floor; Edward J. Ribner, J. F. Torrence, Grady H. Emmons and W. B. Terrell, Tech High school students, testified about seeing the alleged altercation.

Hooper, in summing up to Recorder Cone, pointed out that Rapaport had committed no crime, that he was perfectly willing to co-operate in an investigation, and that it was "just a case of two men getting angry and losing their heads."

Recorder Cone said that phrase, "it's none of your damn business," allegedly used by Rapaport, did not constitute profanity.

Is Your Hair GOING OR GROWING at these three points?

Is your scalp growing 81 new hairs each day to replace those which become mature and fall out naturally? Or is your hair going—getting thinner and thinner at the (1) temples, (2) crown or (3) frontal point? Thinning hair at these danger points should warn you and alarm you—but should not cause you to feel that baldness is inevitable. Thinning hair can be stopped and baldness can be avoided if you consult a Thomas expert.

Ninety percent of all cases of hair loss result from the 14 local scalp disorders which respond readily to Thomas treatment. A Thomas expert knows the symptoms of each of these local scalp ills and knows precisely how to overcome them. He knows how to end dandruff, how to stop abnormal hairfall, and how to promote hair growth on the thin and bald spots.

Consult a Thomas expert today and learn the truth about your hair and scalp. If you do not come within the scope of Thomas treatment you will be frankly told. No charge is ever made for advice, consultation, or complete scalp examination.

IL DUCE APPROVES ACTION OF HITLER NAZIFYING AUSTRIA

Mussolini Warns That Invasion of Italy Will Mean War.

ROME, March 16.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini approved Adolf Hitler's absorption of Austria today, but warned that any invasion of Italian frontiers would mean war.

"Our frontiers are sacred!" Il Duce shouted in a nation-wide broadcast. "We will not discuss them. We will defend them!"

His words clearly were an effort to stifle the anxiety of the Italian people, with Austria now only a province of Germany and the Nazi frontier at the Brenner Pass.

Throughout Italy millions gathered around radios and loudspeakers to hear Il Duce's assurances that Italy's borders were inviolable and that Anschluss was no menace.

Italy, he proclaimed, is not frightened by "the global figure of millions of Germans present on our frontiers."

Italy To Stand Firm. "First of all, Italy, this Italy, does not allow itself to be easily impressed," he declared. "This Italy has a firm will, a firm spirit. It marches straight ahead."

Mussolini defended Italy's acquiescence to the annexation of Austria as consistent with her past policy of defending Austria's independence. But, he declared, it would have been "an historical and political absurdity" for Austria, a German state, to have existed independent and anti-German.

The previous policy, he told a crowd that jammed the chamber of deputies, was based on the premise that Austria wanted independence.

Recent events, he declared, proved Austria no longer desired freedom and, therefore, it would have been pointless for Italy to intervene against her ally in the Rome-Berlin axis.

"Italian interest in the independence of the Austrian federal state existed, but it was based on the premise that the Austrians, at least a majority of them, desired such independence," Mussolini said.

Mistake Cited.

Il Duce disclosed he had counseled an emissary of the ousted Austrian chancellor, Kurt Schuschnigg, against the plebiscite Schuschnigg had proposed. He said it was "the first time in history" Austria had sought his advice.

"I told him in the most peremptory manner that it was a mistake," Mussolini declared. "This bomb will explode in your hands," I told him."

Mussolini charged "the usual opponents of Fascism" hoped that the coup in Austria would cause a clash "between the two totalitarian states." But their calculations were wrong, he said.

"That clash would have been the prelude to a new World War."

"The moment had arrived indeed to strengthen the axis... which the two totalitarian states follow (on the Rome-Berlin axis) as a parallel way."

LIQUOR BALLOTING FOR TERRELL SET

Second County Option Election To Be on March 30 With Fulton.

A second county option election on the sale of liquor yesterday was set for March 30, the date set for the balloting in Fulton county. The second county to vote on that day will be Terrell, where an election was called yesterday by Ordinary J. H. Fletcher.

In announcing Terrell's election, Judge Fletcher said he had received a petition bearing far more than 35 per cent of the county's registered voters.

The principal cities of Terrell county are Dawson and Bronwood. Dougherty county, the first Georgia county to approve the liquor plan, is scheduled to begin the sale of liquor next Tuesday.

One local option liquor election was blocked by court order and a new one scheduled.

At Pembroke, Ordinary W. R. Deal announced that a temporary restraining order had been issued halting the Bryan county referendum.

Hearing Called.

He said Judge J. T. Grice signed the order and called a hearing at Glennville Friday, the date the election was scheduled.

Twins—2 Sets—Now Grace Atlanta Home

Her second set of twins in four years, Mrs. V. H. Spence smiles as she surveys her newest pair of boys, born early yesterday. The chubby boys, unimpaired of the photographer, do not smile back. While they're her second set, Mrs. Spence is determined they will be "first" in her heart—for a while, at least.

Constitution Staff Photos—Rosen.

They were news four years ago and a "surprise" to their parents, were Harold Gene and Hazel Joyce, boy and girl twins, the first pair born to Mrs. Spence. Although they'll be pushed into the background to let the new twins have the spotlight, the small couple didn't seem to mind yesterday.

JUDGES' SENTENCES TEST CASE PLANNED

Chatham County Solicitor Confers With Officials Here.

Assistant Solicitor A. J. Ryan Jr., of Chatham county, conferred here yesterday with Fulton superior court officials and State Senator Paul Lindsay on a planned test case from Savannah on the new state law changing the sentencing of convicts from jury to judge.

A similar test case is now pending in Fulton court. Harry Winston Jr., negro convicted Monday of a robbery, awaits sentencing by Judge Hugh M. Dorsey next Monday. His attorneys have indicated the conviction, which followed the new law, would be appealed.

Ryan sought to determine the advisability of a second test case from Savannah. He said the Chatham docket had been held in abeyance pending some decision on a test of the new law's constitutionality.

Atlanta Woman Again Presents Mate With Twins

Virgil H. Spence, 38-year-old mechanic for a cotton mill, was a "tired" man last night and his mind was full of worries—just 12 hours after his wife had given birth to a second set of twins in four years.

The twins, both boys, were born to Mrs. Spence in an Atlanta hospital early yesterday. Her husband said he "wasn't surprised" when he heard the verdict of the physicians.

"I've got to feed 'em," he declared, not happily, not unhappily. "I'm not worried right now about finding names for them."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Spence and her two new sons were resting comfortably at the hospital. Just four years ago, Harold Gene and Hazel Joyce Spence were born early one morning. At that time, Mr. Spence admitted last night, the twins were unexpected. Especially a boy and girl combination.

With six children now, Spence feels that he has enough. Virgil C., now 14, and Mary Evelyn, 10, came long before the twins.

"Six is all I want," the mechanic said. "In fact, six children ought to be enough for anybody to have."

The couple live at No. 7 Morley avenue, S. E.

PORK IMPORTS TAX ALARMS SOUTHLAND

Dixie Congressmen Fear Excessive May Curtail Cotton Shipments to Poland.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, March 16.—Southern congressmen, including Representative Emmett M. Owen, of Georgia, are beginning to worry lest the Wilson amendment to the pending tax revision bill which placed a 6 cents a pound excise tax on pork imports, might seriously interfere with southern exports of cotton to Poland, a large foreign consumer of the staple and with other reciprocal trade agreements which this country has negotiated with European nations.

Owen, the only member from

Georgia who helped draft the new crop control bill, which cotton growers of his section just approved in a state-wide referendum, pointed out that while Poland shipped $10,000,000 worth of pork to the United States last year, she purchased from us $12,000,000 worth of cotton in addition to many other articles of trade.

"Our foreign cotton market isn't any too good now," Owen said, "and while a differential of $2,000,000 between pork purchases and cotton sales isn't a great deal when our country's entire cotton production is considered, yet I do not believe we can afford to drive a good buyer like Poland into the markets of India or the Egyptian Sudan."

While most southern congressmen voted against the amendment, they realize that if the senate committee on finance, of which Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, is a high-ranking member, does not reject it and it is accepted by the senate, the amendment is bound to be thrown into conference between the two houses with the possibility that it will be accepted.

Many feel that the pork amendment was accepted by the house under a misapprehension and that it was originally introduced in the house at the instance of meat packers who are intent upon sabotaging Secretary of State Hull's reciprocal trade program.

PASSENGER JUMPS

OVERBOARD AT SEA

TAMPA, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Captain Callaway, of the steamship Hastings, reported on arrival here today that a passenger listed as J. R. Heady, 38, of Shelby, Ind., had jumped overboard last night while the vessel was in the Gulf of Mexico.

Callaway said the man left a note, which was delivered to him this morning, saying he was in bad health. Callaway said that no search was made of the waters.

ICC GRANTS TRUCKS INCREASES IN RATES

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized truck carriers today to file a master tariff putting into effect rate increases in line with those recently granted the railroads.

The truck industry received permission to put the higher rates in effect upon 10 days' notice. The railroads plan to make the rate increases effective March 28.

COMMONS BACKS PREMIER ON SPAIN

Great Britain Warns Nazis To 'Obey' Assurances on Czechs.

Worth of Gibraltar if the forces of North Africa and Spain held by a hostile power?" The prime minister pointed out that foreign forces were fighting both sides in Spain.

"Only Rumors." He evoked opposition protests when he described as "only rumors" reports that fresh forces had gone to the aid of the Spanish Insurgents.

Upholding the British policy of nonintervention in the Spanish conflict, Chamberlain said:

"We would best serve British interests, best serve peace, best serve the cause of freedom if we keep out of Spain, continue the policy of nonintervention and do not attempt to burn our fingers on other nations might well do." Earlier he had told the legislature in effect that the government had laid aside any consideration of restoring Germany's war-lost colonies.

Lord Halifax, meanwhile, in an upper house flayed Hitler's thess application of power politics.

Is This the Reason You Are Constipated?

If you're wondering why your bowels don't work right—stop and think about what you eat. Bread, meat, eggs and potatoes. All good nourishing foods—but all concentrated, lacking in "bulk." And you need "bulk"! Some food that forms a soft, spongy mass in the bowels—helps them move.

It's this lack of "bulk" that's causing your constipation. Kellogg's All-Bran is just what you need. It soaks up water and softens like a sponge. And this soft mass helps your bowels move. In addition, All-Bran gives you Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B. Eat this crisp crunchy cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and enjoy happier days. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Smallpox Scare Over, Says Kennedy

Belief that Atlanta's smallpox scare is over was expressed yesterday by Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer.

He told Mayor Hartsfield there has been only one light case of smallpox in the last 10 days and only six in all.

Dr. Kennedy asserted the city physicians henceforth will vaccinate only persons who have never been vaccinated before and who do not have the money to pay a private physician. Persons who have been vaccinated and wish to be immunized again were advised to see their private physicians. Dr. Kennedy said it cost the city more than $100 to vaccinate 1,000 persons, the daily average this week.

Extremely ugly truth that neither treaty texts nor international law have any influence in dealing with power politics" where "force and force alone decides."

He rejected any idea of bringing Germany's conquest of Austria before the League of Nations, declaring League members were not prepared to go to war on the issue and therefore "nothing could be gained."

He called Germany's Austrian action as a "fait accompli unparalleled in history."

Respect Assurances. Viscount Halifax called on Germany to respect assurances to Czechoslovakia that Austro-German union was not aimed at her.

"We naturally expect the German government to obey them," he declared, "and if indeed they desire to see peace maintained—as I earnestly hope they do—there is no quarter in Europe in which it is more vital that undertakings should scrupulously be respected."

The opposition storm broke when Richard Austen Butler, conservative, replied to indignant questions regarding Spain that the government had no information to support charges that Germany and Italy had rushed reinforcements to Generalissimo Franco.

Cabinet Cheers

Members of the Chamberlain cabinet cheered when the prime minister complained to Attlee "it is altogether unreasonable to try to press us to make statements at this time."

"May I ask the prime minister to remember the great anxiety of a country with no policy," Attlee said.

Chamberlain answered: "Mr. Attlee cannot propose that I am ignorant of that, but that's no reason why he should deliver ultimatums to me."

Laborite James Maxton interjected:

"Isn't it better to have ultimatums from the leader of the opposition than from some foreign power?"

Church Leaders Discuss Aldersgate Rally

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, president of the North Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, left, and Bishop Arthur J. Moore, in charge of the church's missionary work abroad, discuss the Aldersgate rally during the series of meetings yesterday at the First Methodist church.

Dr. J. O. Schisler, left, secretary of the local church department of the general board of Christian education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and Dr. T. D. Ellis, general secretary of the board of church extension, were among the speakers at the one-day rally yesterday held in memory of the conversion of the church's founder, John Wesley.

gate rally, one of 33 to be held in all parts of the south.

Hitting the keynote of the meeting before an audience which packed the church, he asserted the world has lost sight of Christian ideals since the World War and pleaded for a revival of the idealism of former days.

"We formerly tried to accomplish things for the glory of God," Bishop Moore said. "To day we seem to think of nothing but money. We have lost sight of God completely in our search for material gain and the church is on a sit-down strike."

"What we need is to Christianize the conscience of America. If that could be done I wouldn't care who wrote the laws. Sinister forces are at work in the world and if we are to combat them we must be against some things as well as for some things."

Hitting at the growth of Communism and Fascism, Bishop Moore said that both ignore the individual in favor of the state and that both are materialistic, "marching over borders they have no business to cross."

Other Speakers

Other speakers at the morning session were Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of Macon, president of the North Georgia Conference, who presided, and Dr. T. D. Ellis, of Louisville, general secretary of the board of church extension.

After the noon recess, Dr. C. C. Jarrell, presiding elder of the Atlanta district, opened the afternoon meeting by introducing Dr. J. O. Schisler, of Nashville, secretary of the local church department, general board of Christian education.

Dr. Schisler described the purpose of the Aldersgate rallies being directed by Bishop A. Frank Smith, and said they are designed to teach the people of the church the true meaning of what brought about its start and to help them make definite plans for the future.

Topics for Day

Topics discussed during the day's program were "What Happened at Aldersgate," "The Need of Aldersgate," "The Aldersgate Evangel," "The Recall to Aldersgate," "The Aldersgate Plan," "The Aldersgate Revival," and "The Continuation Program."

Dr. W. Angle Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church, Birmingham, was the principal speaker at last night's rally which brought the one-day meeting to a close. Topics discussed were "The Warm Heart of Methodism" and "The Overflow of the Warm Heart."

Singing was led by Dr. C. C. Washburn, of Nashville, director of hymnology at Scarritt College.

With the church merger plan becoming an increasingly live topic, Dr. James W. Lipscomb, head of the group fighting the proposal, announced yesterday a meeting will be held at the Wesley Memorial church at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

Bishop Denny to Speak

The speaker at that time will be Bishop Collins Denny, of Richmond, regarded as an outstanding authority on church law in Southern Methodism. He recently has made talks in Columbia and Augusta and will speak in Savannah Saturday night.

"Unification affects nearly 3,000,000 Southern Methodists who own more than $3,000,000 in church property and endowments," Dr. Lipscomb's announcement said.

"It is regarded as the most important question to come before the southern branch in years and the visit of Bishop Denny will attract wide interest throughout the North Georgia Conference."

Property Rights

"The property rights of Southern Methodists in the proposed union will not rest in the Southern Methodist church if the union plan is passed but will rest in the proposed Methodist church in which the south will be consistently outvoted. Among the more important items to be affected will be Emory University and the Emory University hospital."

was to have chartered a plane and flown it to Nassau to get Scott, but that instead he engaged Miller to pilot it. The Miami Beach Seaplane Service, from which the ship was chartered, said they had no information on the purpose of the flight and that Miller and his party were to have returned today.

CHILDREN'S MOTHER FLED COURT JURISDICTION

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—(AP)—Eva Scott, six, and her three-year-old sister, Zoe, objects of an alleged airplane abduction at Nassau today, are great-grandchildren of the late Dr. and Mrs. Alexis I. du Pont, of Delaware.

Their father, Forrester H. Scott, questioned in connection with the abduction, is a Philadelphia attorney and big game hunter.

Mrs. Marguerite du Pont Ortiz Boden, their mother, won a Reno divorce from Scott, June 22, 1937. On the same day she married Harry Clark Boden, former Philadelphia architect.

After a legal battle for custody of the two children, Philadelphia courts granted part-time custody to Scott. When Mrs. Boden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Ortiz of Greenville, Del., took the children across the state line into Delaware, Scott procured a warrant for her return. Mrs. Boden remained out of the warrant's jurisdiction, however.

Last July 10 she had Scott arrested, charging he slapped her at a garden party of Eugene du Pont, at Christiana Hundred, Del.

Scott, a World War aviator, escaped death in 1929 when a plane he was operating fell into the Delaware river near the Philadelphia navy yard. Freeing himself before the plane sank, he was brought ashore by sailors.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 17, 1938.

UNLESS, A MIRACLE—

War drums sound across the frontiers of Europe. The chiefs claim their fighting men and armies stand, menacing, in battle array. The world trembles on the brink of horror and the instruments of death hover, on sable pinions, over the helpless innocents who await the sacrifice.

Never has the outlook for the world been more dark. Even in the days of 1914 the black clouds did not gather with such direful portent. The World War then came more suddenly, the suspense did not hang, so long, like Damocles' sword, over the world.

Every peaceful artifice of man has been in vain. War looms certain, unless a miracle occurs.

There is One to Whom all things are possible. He who sees the sparrow's fall yet holds in His hands the destiny of man. It may be, in the inscrutable wisdom of God, that mankind must pass through another purge of war. It may be that world conflict is according to the Divine plan.

But it may be that the miracle shall come to pass, that the passions of power-drunk dictators shall be curbed, that the rivalries of the nations shall be satisfied in peace.

Unless that miracle comes, however, another day of Armageddon is near.

Once again it is Germany which forces the issue. The spirit of conquest stirs anew in the Teutonic race. This time it is Hitler who holds the gun to the heart of the world. Whether leadership be vested in hereditary monarch or in a dictator risen from obscurity, the menace is the same.

Study of the European situation reveals scant reason for hope. There are, it is true, many question marks, but they are puzzles of procedure rather than avenues to peace.

Look at the map:

In Spain the Insurgents, aided by the forces of Germany and Italy, have practically driven the Loyalists to their knees. Unless France intervenes, rout of the government arms seems inevitable.

France, however, is massing troops beyond the Pyrenees. The reason is obvious. If General Franco wins in Spain, it means Mussolini or Hitler will control that nation. Then, in case of a war alliance of Germany and Italy, against France, the French armies would have a new frontier to defend, their southern border, as well as the German line.

Britain could not, under any consideration, permit Mussolini to take Spain and, with it, control of Gibraltar and the Mediterranean. His hand would then be ready, at any time, to throttle the lifeline of the British Empire. He would be in position to exact a tribute on world commerce too high to contemplate.

Germany has swallowed Austria, as completely as a python engorges its helpless prey. But all the world asks why? Austria itself is not a rich country. Some natural resources, such as lumber and grain, may lessen, to some extent, present stringencies within the Reich. But the country is circumscribed, limited in resources, but a remnant of the once proud domain of the Hapsburgs. It is barely self-supporting and, in the long run, may be more of a responsibility than an asset.

But Austria is the road to other, and more valuable, assets. Beyond Austria lies Czechoslovakia, industrially and agriculturally rich. Beyond Austria lies Hungary, with its grain; Rumania with its oil. And beyond them all lies the Ukraine, the granary of Europe.

Through Austria, too, is the road to Italy and the Tyrol, via the Brenner Pass. German sentiment still looks longingly at the Tyrol, which was part of Austria before the World War but which, when the map of Europe was redrawn after that war, came under the Italian flag.

Germany and Italy are presumed to have a secret military understanding, two dictatorships working hand in hand. Yet Italian hearts must know unease as they realize that the guns of a foreign power, ostensible friend or potential foe, command the Brenner Pass.

Neither France, Britain nor Russia can permit Germany to go too far. If Hitler moves further, it is inevitable that the armies and fleets of France, Britain and Russia will call halt. Russia and France are already committed by treaty to protect the independence of Czechoslovakia. England could not fail to join them, first because the island kingdom would be doomed if German power became too great and, secondly, because England must, for friendship and for her own sake, back France. A triumphant Germany in Europe would mean, without equivocation, that Berlin would rule Britannia.

Under that alignment, Britain, France and Russia against Germany, where would Italy stand? Will the black shirts of Fascism act together with the brown-shirted Nazis, or will Ill Duce see that his wisest course is friendship with Britain, the ancient mistress of the seas?

Or perhaps, will an Italian dictator fear too great power in the hands of another dictator at Berlin?

What of America? If Armageddon comes, can the United States withdraw unto herself and remain isolated among the warring nations of the world? Theoretically, yes. This nation can live within an iron ring that quarantines from all contact with the outside world. It can be self-sufficient.

But, in actuality, the hope of isolation is but a dream. Human sympathies, public opinion, commercial interests and future safety will all draw America into the struggle. Not at the beginning, but before the issue is finally decided, it is inevitable that this nation will be involved. The modern world is too closely linked, modern man lives in too close touch with all the world, for any great power to remain aloof from a struggle which may well spell doom for civilization as we of today understand it.

The only answer, if war impends, is proper preparation.

The clashing ideologies of democracy and dictatorship have been for years approaching the final test. Today they are racing, fast, toward the climax.

Men and nations who love freedom must gird themselves to fight if peace and brotherhood, if equality, fraternity and liberty, are not to perish from the earth.

Unless, a miracle—

A DEMOCRAT IN OFFICE

Induction into office as foreign minister of Brazil of Oswaldo Aranha is a heartening break in the clouds which have threatened to obscure democracy in this largest of South American countries. His selection marks a definite turn from the Fascist ideology indicated in the seizure of power by President Getulio Vargas in a coup d'etat last November 10.

Immediately following the Vargas coup, Aranha left his post as ambassador to the United States in Washington and returned to Brazil. Only a few days before he had said in a speech at Cleveland that Brazil would never swerve from the course set 43 years ago when the republic was founded. His return to Rio de Janeiro was considered a protest against certain features of the regime.

One of the strong men of his country, and an organizer of the revolution that swept Vargas into power in 1930, Aranha is a firm friend of the United States. During his three years in Washington he became one of the most popular members of the diplomatic corps. Reaction in the capital of the United States is that his appointment as foreign minister should shatter suspicions of a Fascist trend of the Vargas regime. It is considered unthinkable that Aranha would accept the post under a Fascist government.

His appointment is particularly fortunate at this time, since he will have control of negotiation of the new German-Brazilian trade pact, a document which expired July 1, 1936, but which has been continued since on an indefinite basis. The German reich has recently been seeking a new agreement and, since Aranha considered the old pact unfair to the United States, it appears probable this country will benefit. Germany trades on subsidized exports and compensated marks and on this basis Americans have not been able to compete. German goods cutting heavily into American shipments have been typewriters, electric refrigerators, automobile tires, machinery and office equipment.

Aranha's assumption of office is more important, though, in its implication that Brazil will eventually break away completely from the ranks of the five South American countries which admittedly are not democratic. Still operated under strong dictatorships, which are military rather than personal, are Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and Paraguay. Uruguay and Venezuela are in fact personal regimes, although avowedly democratic; Argentina and Chile operate under governments based on the formally expressed will of the people, while Colombia is a liberal democracy.

After the radio comic has entertained with the jokes of our childhood, the orchestra will oblige with "Thanks for the Memories."

A government meteorologist comes out with an explanation of the movieland flood. It will surprise the public that thinks all those spectacular effects are worked up indoors.

Editorial of the Day

CANADA IS FORTUNATE

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

The Canadian budget will balance this year for the first time in nearly a decade.

When the Dominion's fiscal year ends on March 31 there will be a surplus in the treasury at Ottawa which current estimates place at approximately $5,000,000.

Canada experienced the same "hard times" following the crash of 1929, as the United States did, and it had to spend money on unemployment relief, to meet increased deficits of the Canadian National Railways and to foot other extraordinary expenditures due to the depression, all in the face of declining revenues.

Then conditions began to improve across the border.

And, finally, the Hon. Mr. Dunning, finance minister, who has never taken his eye off the goal of a balanced budget, finds himself in a position to announce that the Dominion's revenue more than covers its expenditures.

Canada is to be congratulated on having in these trying times a government with enough wisdom and courage to cut its suit to fit its cloth, without extravagance or waste.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

BROKERAGE FIRM SUPERVISION WASHINGTON, March 16.—Shocked by the disastrous failure of Richard Whitney, the Securities and Exchange Commission is seriously considering a general rule requiring all brokerage houses to publish semiannual statements of their financial condition. The rule would, in effect, put the brokers on the same footing as bankers.

During the past week, the rule has been discussed from every angle at a series of commission meetings, and the chances for its adoption are good. It is as sweeping a regulation as it very well could be. Not only does it go far beyond the new rule of the New York exchange, forcing members to show financial statements to their customers on demand. It also includes the 6,000 over-the-counter brokerage establishments, as well as the 800 stock exchange member firms. If the rule is adopted, ample warning will, of course, be given all firms affected.

Enforced semiannual advertisement of brokerage houses' assets and liabilities is only the first of a series of financial safeguards contemplated by the SEC. An elaborate long-term inspection program, modeled on the bank examiners' system, is being prepared. It would necessitate an increase in SEC personnel, it will not be promulgated until additional funds are available. Meanwhile, the SEC plans to use its margin inspectors as informal checkers-up. The net of the whole thing is that the SEC is now determined, by whatever means seem most practical, to treat its dependent brokers as guardians of a public trust. The commissioners do not fear that other firms are in the same condition as Richard Whitney & Co.; they are merely convinced that, since the brokerage houses do handle millions of other people's money, the houses have the responsibility of doing their business in the open.

WHITNEY TRAGEDY After all their bitter disagreements with the stock exchanges, after years of hating Mr. Whitney as their leading and most influential enemy, the officials of the SEC might have been expected to take the Whitney failure as the proof of their worst suspicions. Instead, they have realized its tragedy almost as fully as Mr. Whitney's former friends and associates, whose distress makes Wall Street the gloomiest place in America.

Strangely enough, Mr. Whitney's failure seems to have brought the stock exchange people and SEC officials closer together than they have ever been. SEC officials are watching with friendly interest and approval the move already on foot among leading exchange members to make up the deficiencies in the trust funds, the securities of which were pledged by Mr. Whitney.

There is little doubt that these deficiencies will be met in some fashion. Under ordinary circumstances, Mr. Whitney's brother, George, and other members of his family might have been expected to find the money to clear up the situation. But it is reported that, before he went under, Mr. Whitney borrowed large sums from his family, as well as from a number of his close friends.

Due to the character of the case, these friends and relatives were unable to save him from the final collapse, and now it may be that, having lost so much by Mr. Whitney's failure already, they will not be in a position to put up still more money. Thus, the other stock exchange leaders are understood to be standing by to do whatever may seem wise and proper.

SAD COINCIDENCE Mr. Whitney's failure is the first among stock exchange firms since October, 1933, and, even in the worst days of the 1929 panic, the percentage of brokerage houses which went under was exceedingly small, as compared, for example, with the percentage of bank failures. This was, naturally, the reason why the SEC failed in the first instance to demand strict financial publicity from the brokers.

Curiously enough, the scheme to make brokerage firms publish semiannual financial statements was mooted once before, when Joseph P. Kennedy was SEC chairman. Then it was Mr. Whitney who came to Washington, as the leading figure in the exchange, to block the SEC's regulation program. It is a curious coincidence that as of July 1, would mean nothing on July 2, still has force, and, if the SEC failed to adopt the proposed rule, will be the explanation of the SEC decision.

FUTURE REPERCUSSIONS Since Mr. Whitney was the unquestioned general of the stock exchange old guard, his failure is bound to mean much more than the mere adoption of the publicity rule. It will mean that the other members of the old guard, who worked with Mr. Whitney to block the SEC's regulation program, will be powerless to oppose the exchange's more liberal members.

There is little doubt that, since the Whitney failure, the proposed reorganization of the stock exchange will go through without further ado. Moreover, it seems probable that, in the altered balance of forces, an exchange president more agreeable to the administration than any so far considered will be docilely selected by the brokers. And, in general, the SEC and the New Deal will be able to be more bold in suggesting financial reforms.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

If a man listens
He's sure to hear.
But it takes a heart
As well as an ear,
To interpret the song
When joy draws near.

An English Echo of the South.

Sir Rudyard Kipling, in one of his most recent books, writes about a neighbor of his in Sussex, near the village of Burwash, a Colonel H. Wemyss Feilden. And, in these reminiscences, there is mention of a "road and a church beside a river in Georgia," where, Colonel Feilden said, he cut his initials in a pew "the night—'s cavalry stabled their horses there."

Wonder what river and what church? Perhaps the Savannah-Brunswick highway, near the Altamaha. But you'll be interested in Kipling on Colonel Feilden. The noted author wrote how his neighbor had served as a young man with the historic Black Watch, seeing service during the Indian Mutiny. Then, after the Mutiny, the young officer left the army service, and lived a while in South Africa.

"Next, he ran the blockade of the United States Civil War, and wedded his southern wife in Richmond, with a ring hammered out of an English sovereign, 'because there wasn't any gold in Richmond just then.' Mrs. Feilden at 75 was in her own right an explanation of all the steps he had taken—and forfeited.

Aide-de-Camp To Lee.

"He came to be one of Lee's aides-de-camp, and told me how once on a stormy night, when he rode in with dispatches, Lee had ordered him to take off his dripping cloak and lie by the fire, and how when he waked from badly needed sleep, he saw the general on his knees before the flame drying the cloak. 'That was just before the surrender,' said he. 'We had finished robbing the grave, and we'd begun on the cradle. For those last three months I was with 15,000 boys under 17, and I don't remember any one of them when I'm smiling.'"

"But by bit came to understand that he was a traveler and an arctic explorer, in possession of the snow-white Polar ribbon; a botanist and naturalist of reputation; and himself above all.

A Church In Georgia.

"And once there came to us with her married daughter the widow of a Confederate cavalry leader; both of them were what you might call 'unconquered.' It was a somehow, the widow mentioned a road and a church beside a river in Georgia. 'It's still there, then?' said the colonel, giving it its name. 'Why do you ask?' was the quick reply. 'Because, if you look in such and such a pew, you might find my initials. I cut them there the night—'s cavalry stabled their horses there.' There was a pause. 'Fore God, then, who are you?' she gasped. He told her. 'You knew my husband?' I served under him. He was the only man in our corps who wore a white collar. She pelted him with questions, and the names of the old dead. 'Come away,' whispered daughter to me. 'They don't want us.' Nor did they for a long hour."

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Monday, March 17, 1913:

"There was an audience of 44-106 when the moving picture theaters in Atlanta today opened their doors to the public for the first time on Sunday yesterday afternoon. There was no admission charged, but little boxes were there to receive contributions for charity."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Saturday, March 17, 1868:

"John Thompson, who has been call officer at police headquarters ever since he could grow a beard, yesterday appeared with a face looking very much like a peeled onion. It is believed that the colonel—that's what he likes to be called—found fifteen cents somewhere, and got a shave. It was the first shave of his life."

Garner Pecans.

Vice President John Nance Garner's five-acre pecan orchard at his home near Uvalde, Texas, produced 3,000 pounds of pecans that brought $750. J. A. Simpson, the vice president's orchardist, reported. Simpson said Garner gets more pleasure from studying pecan culture and applying his theories to his orchard than he does from fishing in the rivers of Uvalde county, also a favorite pastime.

FAIR ENOUGH

Why Should Reds Enjoy Immunity? 16.—At a lunch in Kansas City recently the speaker, a Mr. Collins, told of a man standing at a bar who tore out of the place and ran for home when a voice at the door cried, "McGuire, your house is on fire."

"He hid run six blocks," Mr. Collins said, "before he suddenly dug his heels into the ground, skidded to a stop and said, 'Hell, my name isn't McGuire!'"

Mr. Collins was making the point that we are all slaves of habit in thought, and I use his story to open the question of Red-baiting and ask why Reds or Communists of various shades should enjoy an immunity which is not given the members of any other political faith and which the Reds themselves allow to nobody who disagrees with them.

Why not bail Reds? Out of sheer carelessness a superstition has been allowed to grow to the size of a robust principle that of all the political elements in this country the Reds alone must be treated with special courtesy and that it is un-American and a mark of gross ignorance to criticize those whose sole purpose and constant effort is to install here the bloody terror of Moscow.

The favorite attack of the Reds themselves, which they have made popular even with persons who are not Reds but only want to be fair, is to assert that the Red-baiter is a political bigot who recklessly flogs Liberals and Socialists in his sweeping denunciations of the bolos.

I will grant that this has been known to happen, with the stipulation, however, that many Liberals and Socialists keep very bad company and that many Reds, in the uses of protective coloration, pretend to be Liberals and Socialists. But, considering that the Reds despise the Liberal and Socialist, their concern for these elements obviously is false. Since when have they been so solicitous of Liberals and Socialists? They bait Liberals and Socialists themselves.

On the other hand, the Reds are notoriously careless in their generalizations, for to them every one who is not a red, or pink enough to be useful as a decoy, is a Fascist. They violently abuse as "many ordinary Democrats and Republicans whose detestation of Fascism is known to be as fierce as their hatred of the Moscow horror."

American Habit Yet, thanks to the American habit of accepting ideas without examination, they have enjoyed the benefit of a tradition that Red-baiting is beneath the political chivalry of true Americans. Our papers, even the most conservative, often have uttered self-conscious denials of any such intention when, in decent loyalty to their principles, they should have ripped and dashed the Reds with the same loose-jointed abandon that the bolos use against all and sundry.

Chicago and Los Angeles, in the Tribune and the Times, respectively, possess two of the most temperate and highly colored reactionary papers in the country, but they are models of calm and patient fairness by comparison with the least vicious of the Red publications.

Direct controversy is avoided in respect for ex-Senator Jim Watson's quaint but indisputable dictum that nobody ever won a person's contempt with a skunk.

That is one reason why Red-baiting should be avoided, but it is a purely personal and not very noble one, and it certainly is not binding on anyone who wants to take the risk.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

BUCK. Ashby McCord of Fort Valley has a bird dog, a pointer, named Buck—one of the finest specimens of that famous type of bird dogs I have anywhere ever seen. But Buck is not only good looking, he is generally smart. I have sometimes thought that bird dogs have more sense than any other sort of dog—I say, sometimes—and Buck has convinced me that if all the bird dogs could match him in intelligence and cleverness, there would be no further debate on the subject.

Buck has a charge account at the grocery store. He goes in and gives the proper signal to the butcher and he cuts him off 10 cents worth of meat, wraps it up, puts the package in Buck's mouth and he goes directly home, reports to Mary, the cook, and she unwraps the meat, hands it back to him, and he goes to his accustomed place in the backyard for his dinner. Now here is where you have to hold to your chair, but they tell me this is the way it happens. Every now and then Buck gets worried about running up too much of a bill, so he goes to a certain banker friend there in Fort Valley, looks at the banker in a sort of distressing way, and the banker puts a dime in an envelope and hands it to Buck and he goes on down and pays cash for his meat.

Every night at the stroke of 12, he reports to the policeman, whose partner checks out at midnight, and stays with that one officer on duty the rest of the night. Sometime ago the officer got a call to raid a house where a crap game was in progress. He told Buck to take the front door and he would go the back door. Buck held the crowd of men from running out of the front door until the officer had put everyone under arrest.

I could go on with other accounts of evidence of Buck's rare intelligence and courage, but I expect this is enough for the first installment. One of the first citizens of Fort Valley enjoys the respect and confidence of the community. I inquired about his standing with the other dogs of the community, and was told that he rarely has a fight, but when nothing else will do one of his fellow canines, he can give them what is coming to them in short order. The next time you pass through Fort Valley, ask Mr. McCord to introduce you to Buck. You will treasure his acquaintance.

The Ferocity of Bears Needn't Worry You if You Aren't Going Hunting

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

From all the confusion of controversy concerning the danger of war and America's need of armament, two facts appear unclouded by dispute.

The first is that Japan's fleet is so strong, and her position is nearly impregnable, that neither America's fleet nor England's can hope to defeat her.

The second is that modern weapons and methods of warfare give the defensive a great advantage over the offensive. Now, more than ever before, each cock fight best in his own barnyard.

Taken together, these two facts give America no cause for anxiety. For any dismay caused by the first is canceled by the consolation of the second.

Japan's strength in her own waters is apparent even to the greenest layman.

She has an island empire inclosed by forts. But she has other islands, far out in the sea, that serve as a first line of defense, and a hostile fleet must fight its way past these to reach her.

The long string of Kurile islands bar the approach from Alaska, Formosa and the Loochoo islands stand guard against attack from the south, and the scattered islands taken from Germany protect the approach from Hawaii. Submarines and planes operating from these outer fortifications could make any fleet earn its passage.

It seems to be understood that Japan's navy is inferior to England's and America's in number of capital ships, bombers and guns, but its relative strength is doubled by the fact that any attacking fleet must cross an ocean and operate thousands of miles from its base of supplies—with no planes except the few it can carry on ships.

Our fleet couldn't reach Japan without first destroying the Japanese fleet. After achieving that miracle, it couldn't land a conquering army until all forts were subdued and all planes and submarines destroyed. And then it would need hundreds of merchant ships, which we don't possess, to transport the army and keep it supplied.

In short, it couldn't be done—and on this point the military experts of all lands are agreed.

But if America could not land an army in Japan, how could Japan land an army in America? The ocean is equally wide both ways.

And though the Japs might defeat us in their own waters, what should that concern us if our policy is to defend ourselves an attack nobody?

What After Austria?

Austria? NEW YORK.—It is done. The concentration camps are functioning. The opponents are being done away with. The Jews are being sacked and maltreated. The Catholic Church is being put into step and many priests are headed for jail. Christian Science chapters are to be closed. The Masonic order disbanded and the newspapers are under the ban. It is done: there is no more Austria. Vienna is but provincial capital of the Nazi Reich, where everybody says the same, laughs by order, weeps by order, prostrates children by order and shouts "Heil Hitler."

Europe is staggering under the blow. After all, Herr Hitler's protestations of his peaceful intentions. This is true, he shed no blood. The Austrians were wise enough to see that to have put up any resistance at all would have meant a massacre. So they gave in. They knew that nobody would have come to their assistance. They sent out some frenzied SOS calls to London, Paris and even Rome, it appears. Nobody answered.

No power on earth can drive us out of Austria, announced the Fuehrer upon arrival in Linz. That is quite true. He would be leaving Austria, though, if a free plebiscite were held and he would abide by the will of the people of Austria.

There were grave confabulations in the diplomatic quarters following the putsch. Small countries like Belgium, Holland, Czechoslovakia, Lithuania, Poland, Hungary have good reason to be worried. What prevents Hitler from stirring up trouble through his Nazi agents in those places and then suddenly marching when trouble breaks out to protect German interests or to protect German nationals or to defend himself against Bolshevism, as he puts it. A who will come to their aid in event of a menace by swarms of planes and a mechanized army that can cross a country like Austria in less than 10 hours and occupy the hitherto most frontier Good reason to worry, indeed.

But there is little likelihood of a further march eastward at the moment. Austria is enough for the time being. Herr Hitler does not bite off more than he can chew. The Saar, the Rhineland, Austria, Czechoslovakia will come one after another when France is in the midst of a crisis, more serious than the recent one. Such a crisis bound to arise if the French go quarreling and playing party politics.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"River so blue, so blue and bright, As dawn's pearly hue, as dawn's sweet light . . ."

The "beautiful blue Danube" runs steel gray now. The gray of steel and field uniforms, and armaments, and Adolf Hitler's eyes. The land of the Waltz is goose-stepping, with room no more to whirl or glide in gay delight. The Vienna that has belonged through centuries to laughter and song and simple-heartedness and high romance belongs now to a regiment, an economic plan, a tyranny in which all laughter is synthetic and every song a submission. Only yesterday they were saying that "while the situation in Germany is serious, but not hopeless, the situation in Austria is hopeless, but not serious." The tragedy that comes to Vienna now is that it must be serious at last.

If only the situation were the other way around. If only Adolf Hitler had been Austrian in temperament and taste as well as blood. If only he were leading Viennese against Prussians, rather than Prussians against Viennese. The "anschluss" might be Austria and Bavaria, not Germany and Austria. Austria and Bavaria indeed do have much in common. They have the gentleness and laughter and individuality to which Prussia is a common enemy. A union between them would have been one upon which the whole world could smile. "Strange it is," says The Atlantic.

onsom,' Swedish Co-operative Sign, Prevails Throughout the Country as the Emblem of a Large Business.

By RALPH MCGILL.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — (By 11)—While we waited for the omnibus to arrive, one could across the street at this Stockholm corner a grocery store with sign, "Konsum."

It is a sign which becomes the familiar sign in Sweden. It appears in newspaper ads, on walls, in books, on pamphlets. . . .

It indicates a store of the Swedish co-operatives. S. A. Stahre, of Co-operative Union, arrived in his automobile. We started a trip in which Stahre wanted show some of the visual effects of co-operative consumers' and dealers' stores. He was not a pagandist but was, on the whole, one of the fairest men entered on the trip to the north.

First, he said, "let me say some of the things which have been printed about us are immensely flattering but somewhat exaggerated. Our organization of members is about 12 to 14 per cent of retail trade in Sweden. In Stockholm we do about 20 to 25 per cent of the retail food business. Our membership totals about 30 per cent of the population. Our chief asset is good will. And lest your readers think co-operatives are something peculiar to the north, let me say that in England, bulwark of conservatism, there are more co-operative societies than in all the Scandinavian countries put together; that the is true of the republic of Denmark and that the same applies to the farmers' co-operatives, land and France have more than all four of the Scandinavian countries put together."

AT OF CO-OPERATIVES AMERICA? All right," I said, "now my question is what you think about co-operatives in America?"

"I don't know," he said. "I think agriculture must inevitably develop some co-operatives. I don't know if the plan would work in your cities for consumers. It may."

Let me say that our consumer co-operatives have grown because there was a need for them. If there is no need for them in America, then they won't develop. They begin they likely will be with the trade unions."

Explain how you got your start in the food business in the cities. "I'm glad you asked that. Some of the books written about us make it appear we have wiped out other business. There is no competition between retail business and co-operatives. We have grown, by side. It is interesting to see that now there is beginning opposition for us in the multi-shops, or chain grocery stores you call them. They are adopting our measures and methods and growing."

We do think we keep down prices in retail business. And we in opposition to any monopoly which keeps up prices. You might say we had virgin territory in our methods of retail business. We did not, as some people seem to think who come to visit us, force out of business any other stores. There were no chain stores in business. We now see them developing, copying our shops and methods of packaging and display. You may be sure of this: in the co-operative stores cease to give service, to pay dividends to their members and to sell at a price, there will be no cooperative progress. Our only reason for survival is service.

HIGHER PRICES, HIGHER DIVIDENDS

"In Denmark they have, on the whole, somewhat higher prices but dividends of a higher level. Here we keep prices low and the dividends are smaller, about 3 to 5 per cent."

"It might be explained, that members of the co-operatives are not bound to buy from co-operative stores. Co-operatives are a perfect democracy in that their members control them by votes and in that members are free to buy where they choose. Which brings me back to what I said before, that co-operatives begin to fill a need and exist because they do fill it."

The usual methods of the co-operatives are to enter the purchases of each member on books. At the end of the year the member is paid a dividend. It is a non-profit organization, the only funds kept back being those for a sinking fund to help finance new enterprise.

"What businesses are you in?" "We did in 1937 about 217 million kroner of business in our wholesale co-operative business, selling to retail co-operatives. Our total retail business was about 600 million kroner. The kroner is worth about 27 cents in American money. So you see what the business is in dollars. That represents an increase over the 1936 business which was 195 million kroner and 512 million kroner, respectively."

"That turnover in a country of 6,000,000 people was done by 735 co-operative societies all belonging to the co-operative union and having about 4,000 retail outlets."

"We are in the food business, in the margarine business, in shoes, in electric light bulbs, in flour, in rubber goods, including boots and galoshes, in office machines, in artificial silk, in the manufacture of diaphane, which is your cellophane, we make refrigerators, washing machines, vacuum cleaners."

CO-OPERATIVES OWN LARGE DEPARTMENT STORE

"In addition we own and operate the second largest department store in Sweden."

All of which may give an idea of what an extensive co-operative societies are in business. With about 30 per cent of the population as members and with 98 per cent of the members regarding his co-operative as a sort of religion, it is obvious what an influence the co-operatives have."

The co-operative idea began in England. In the Scandinavian countries its beginnings saw failure after failure. The beginnings saw the idea ridiculed, opposed most violently by banks and by retail business. There is opposition yet from the smaller retail merchants. But there is none from the banks or from so-called big business. There is a very good reason. Co-operation is big business in Sweden."

The trip began with a visit to Luma, the electric light plant. The story of the development of the co-operatives' business is not one flattering to its opposition. Each time they played into the hands of the co-operatives who long ago learned the value of advertising and telling their own story."

"When the co-operative announced it planned a lamp plant the opposition shrieked prices. The co-operative shrieked its 'We told you so.'"

Today the plant is international, supplying co-operatives in three other Scandinavian countries and also co-operatives in Scotland."

The same story was true of the rubber factory, where boots and galoshes, a necessity in winter, were to be made. So it was with the other efforts to break down monopolies. The opposition seemed to lose all judgment and played their cards as the co-operatives wanted them played."

We saw the flour mill, the bread plant and the macaroni factory, three large separate plants, on the island which the co-operative union owns. There also live 350 families in co-operative flats and one-family houses."

CO-OPERATIVE UNION PUBLISHES MAGAZINE

The co-operative union publishes a magazine, "We." It has a circulation of 530,000 weekly, the largest circulation of any publication in Sweden. In it are published propaganda articles for the business and also fiction by the leading writers of Sweden. From that beginning the firm went into other fields and now publishes many books by leading economists of all nations and also some popular fiction."

We saw the school, three large mansions bought from one of Sweden's most wealthy men and transformed into a school for co-operatives. There come all the workers from the co-operative stores, learning how to keep a shop, learning display, advertising, merchandising. They come at the expense of the co-operative and go through schooling. From these schools come the promotions. The "Konsum" shops look so much like our own smart grocery shops of America that only the sign is different."

The general rules are: Membership is open to everybody, they are owned by the members and controlled by them, the return on the share capital is limited to 5 per cent, the surplus is distributed among the customers proportionately to the value of their purchases, the societies observe strict political and religious neutrality, business is done on a cash basis, the societies promote the economic and social education of their members."

They sell to non-members but the dividend they receive applies on shares in the co-operative. The low prices and the practice of selling to the general public. The co-operative wholesalers have to compete with the non-co-operative wholesaler and if he prices are cheaper they buy from him."

ALBIN JOHANSSON BEHIND IT ALL

Back of it all is a financial and business genius, Albin Johansson. He gave credit for turning the government back from its efforts to create a government monopoly on gasoline and coffee. He has kept peace between the farmers, whose co-operatives must be added to those of the consumer and wholesale union if one is to get the true picture in Sweden. He heads the co-operative union."

Consumer co-operatives in Scandinavia vary in their relationships with farmers. In Sweden the farmer is courted. In Norway and Finland the co-operatives largely are supported by members of the trade unions. Trade unions in the large industrial centers have led the way. In Denmark all co-operatives have their members largely among farmers. In Copenhagen the movement is gaining but to date the labor leaders are not quite friendly because only in Denmark are the farmers, the small farmers excepted, in the conservative party where they help wield a tremendous influence."

I visited the head of the Danish co-operative in the new office building in Copenhagen."

"In the past 10 or 15 years we have been making progress in the cities. Our business is increasing, wholesale and retail, 9 to 10 per cent per year. Our dividends are from 6 to 20 per cent. These are the dividends paid back to the customers. Surely not and not slowly as before the working class people are joining the co-operatives. You must remember we are not industrial as in Sweden and other countries."

In Denmark a turnover in 1936 of 195,776,214 kroner. The Danish kroner is worth about 22 cents. The co-operative union operates 22 factories of which two, the coffee roastery and the margarine factory, are large ones, doing more than $2,000,000 business each year. In the cities the grocery turnover in 1936 was more than $3,000,000, against 12 million for the year before."

Each small village has its co-operative store, a sort of general store. BOOKS ON CO-OPERATIVES WRITTEN IN EUROPE

Many thick books have been written about co-operatives in Europe. Any articles must, of necessity, be sketchy."

This one has attempted to give a sort of picture. I think it explains, for the first time, that the food stores began because there were no others like them. They had a virgin field. Today the chain store is developing under private ownership. No one, before the co-operatives, had tried modern marketing in food."

Co-operatives are inevitably tied in, as far as support goes, with the trade unions. Only in Denmark are the co-operatives a farmers' organization."

They have held, as have the chain stores in America, to the cash and carry plan. They do all the business but about 12 to 14 per cent of the retail business in Scandinavia. This, of course, refers only to the consumer co-operative unions and not to the farmers' co-operatives with their bacon, milk and meat centrals."

And conservative England, where they began, has more than the rest of the world put together. There are almost 8,000,000 members in Great Britain and the co-operative trade of the consumer co-operatives is 12 per cent of the total retail trade of Great Britain."

PRIVATE BUSINESS INCREASES IN ALL

Private business continues to increase in all co-operative countries. During the period of co-operative growth in Sweden, for instance, the number of private business firms has increased 100 per cent."

Merchandising has been improved and perfected by co-operatives in Europe but the standards are not as high, in the food stores for instance, as in the chain food stores in America. Cellophane wraps, for instance, are just beginning to be employed."

It has been progressive but it has created nothing new. Co-operation, I think, is a state of mind. It grows slowly. It comes because a need is felt for it."

As for America—apparently there has been no need in the minds of the people of the income class who have made those in Europe. The consumer co-operative officials frankly say they see small chance for consumer co-operative development in America."

Thus far this has been an attempt to tell the story, as briefly as possible, of what has happened in Sweden. I would close with a personal observation which is that in America the farmers, and especially those who are being rescued from the tenant class and given a new start in life, are those with the greatest claim to a need for some sort of co-operative plan for marketing their products."

LITHUANIA FEARS POLAND, GERMANY

Baltic Nation Apprehensive That Troops Will Be Used in Troubles.

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 16 (AP)—Little Lithuania tonight feared both Poland and Germany might seize advantage of European ferment to settle old scores with Lithuania. The Baltic nation was apprehensive Poland's troops would be used to settle renewed border trouble between the two nations, friction which increased after a frontier clash March 11 in which a Polish guard was killed."

Lithuanian officials said Poland had refused an offer to discuss the issue through Estonia, Lithuania's Baltic neighbor."

The situation was made more difficult by the fact Lithuania and Poland have been without normal diplomatic relations for the last 18 years due to Poland's seizure of Wilno (Vilna). Lithuania's fears also were increased concerning her once-German city of Memel, included in Lithuania by the post-war settlement but regarded by Germany as "unredeemed territory."

With Russia to the east, Lithuania is wedged between three powerful neighbors."

(League of Nations' officials in Geneva said Lithuania formally had indicated she would appeal the dispute to the League council. (In Berlin German army circles said Poland had given Lithuania an ultimatum expiring today but Warsaw denied existence of such a communication.)

Polish newspapers across Lithuania's frontiers openly were demanding forces to settle the long-smoldering friction."

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder."

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, then due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness."

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills."

Glamour and color of evening wear concluded the Spring Revue of Practical Fashions staged by Sears yesterday at the first session of The Constitution's Garden School at the Atlanta Woman's Club. The fashion show preceded the lecture by Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown. The models from left to right, are Miss Frances Foster in a satin striped aqua frock; Miss Margie Doster, in a navy taffeta embroidered in pink bowknots, and Miss Louise Courtney, in a turquoise net with accents of pink. There will be a show again today preceding the lecture on "Roses."

summarize the highlights of yesterday and this morning's lectures for the benefit of businessmen and women who are unable to attend the morning classes."

Yesterday, Mrs. Eugene Harrington, a member of the Garden Club and editor of Garden Gateways, the official bulletin of the Garden Club of Georgia, introduced Mrs. Crown. She said:

"With this section one of the most garden-minded in the state, it is quite fortunate that we here in Atlanta and neighboring cities should have the opportunity of having this wonderful garden school brought us by The Constitution. And what is more, to have such a nationally known garden expert as Mrs. Crown to give us information and instruction on our garden. Atlanta gardeners should feel an everlasting debt of gratitude to The Constitution and to Mrs. Crown for this opportunity."

Care and culture of bulbs was the basis of the lecture given by Mrs. Crown. Bulbs planted now will give the gardener beautiful blooming plants for the summer. Preparation and care of dahlias and gladioli were featured in detail by Mrs. Crown, who illustrated her talk with blackboard drawings of underground work for the bulbs."

The selection of the tubers, was another feature of the lecture and she also summarized what methods should be employed to rid plants of insects before and after their appearance. The right type food for plants came in for a portion of the lecture as did the most desirable place in the garden for the bulbs."

The exact time and attendant work for planting certain of the summer flowering bulbs was stressed by Mrs. Crown, who interspersed her talk with personal experiences with her own flowers in the garden of her Decatur home. Running a close second to the

A musical program on the piano was another added feature to yesterday's school, and delightful selections were given by Miss Hermes Jacobs, popular young music teacher."

PASTOR 13 STUDENT AT GARDEN SCHOOL

Clergy joined hands with horticulturists yesterday when the Rev. Eli Thomas was glimpsed among the audience at The Constitution's Garden School session at the Woman's Club."

With notebook and pencil in hand, the Rev. Thomas took many notes on a lecture on "Summer Flower Bulbs." Bulbs are among his favorite flowers and his garden on Fourteenth street is filled with a variety of plants. After the lecture he said:

"I wouldn't miss one of The Constitution's Garden Schools for anything. I expect to attend all three sessions. I have always been a flower lover and Mrs. Crown's lectures are always interesting and instructive."

GRADY PROMOTES MISS RUTH SHEAFE

New Assignment Follows Reed Recommendations.

Miss Ruth Sheafe, superintendent of admissions at Grady hospital for seven years, yesterday assumed charge of the white emergency and the out-patient clinic, by order of the hospital's board of trustees."

The appointment, it was pointed out, is in line with recommendations made in the report of Dr. Thomas H. Reed. Miss Sheafe will have general supervision over the admissions to both the white emergency and out-patient clinics and will be able to co-ordinate work of the two clinics."

Her first action yesterday was to assign Mrs. Ray Fowler, registered nurse, to interviewing prospective out-patients, persons who apply for treatment but who need not be hospitalized and do not need emergency treatment."

There was also a film in technicolor of floral and foliage beautification for the modern home presented by H. G. Hastings Company."

The Narcissus Garden Club, of which Mrs. John Rooney is president, had the largest quota of attendance yesterday."

Tomorrow's lecture will be on "Spring Garden Work" and Mrs. Crown will be introduced by Mrs. Reginald Fleet, a member of the Planters' Garden Club and publicity chairman for the garden pilgrimage to be sponsored by the Garden Club of Georgia. The doors of the club will open at 9 o'clock and the lecture begins at 10 o'clock."

WHAT HELPS BUSINESS—HELPS YOU

WHAT HURTS BUSINESS—HURTS YOU

2. What is Big Business?

The simple definition of "big business" would be to say "big business is just a successful little business grown up." Most of our so-called big business units started small. Behind them were men with ideas and a willingness to risk money and years of life to test those ideas.

Big or small, a successful business is based on an earnest and continuous effort to serve well; to give value for money received; to hold customers by keeping them happy and satisfied; to build an organization of dependable men and women who are contented, well paid and therefore loyal and anxious to see the business grow and progress.

Big business is seldom if ever, one man, because there are positive limits to what any one man can do. Big business depends far more than small business upon organization, which in turn means loyalty of employees. Loyal employees cannot be purchased. They are developed through happy working conditions; proper pay and recognition for work well done; human consideration of the needs and problems of men and women.

Nothing Less Than First Place Will Satisfy 1938 Cracker.

(Editor's Note: Break o' Day is written today by Jack Troy, acting sports editor of The Constitution, pinch-hitting for Ralph McGill.)

One sees by the papers where Rookie Paul Easterling is cutting a lot of capers in the Philadelphia Athletics' training camp at Baton Rouge. (Rookie Easterling is rather well up in years to be a rookie still—but that's the point, he's never still.)

EASTERLING.

When Easterling came to the Crackers, his mates fondly called him "Pound 'Em Paul" at first. And before he left, there was every reason to believe he had the right nickname even if it didn't apply so much to his activities on the diamond.

On a road trip once, one of the Crackers who roomed with him was discovered standing in the hall a bit wild-eyed and with his shirt in tatters.

"That so-and-so had me backed against the wall and was using me as a target. He ordered up a lot of water glasses and broke them, one by one, against the wall where I was standing," he said.

"Why didn't you run?" someone asked. "His aim was too good," responded the bedraggled Cracker. "I got out of there as soon as his ammunition was exhausted."

Easterling always liked to have his fun. He was very playful in a tempestuous sort of way. "Pound 'Em Paul" never seemed to realize his own strength.

Guy Green, Cracker coach, remembers one of his greatest hitting feats. It happened in the Texas league. Guy was playing for Beaumont at the time.

The game was played in the Fort Worth park. A large clock stood in deep center and was figured to be safe for all drives.

Easterling hit one and speeded up the game two minutes. His drive landed flush on the face of the clock, knocked out the minute hand two minutes and lodged inside.

"I didn't think it was possible for a man to hit a ball that far," Green said. "But then that Easterling was capable of doing a lot of things."

The A's have a flock of ex-Crackers on the list who can do things, including Lynn Nelson, Harry Kelley, Bud Thomas and Al Williams. But they're all, somehow, a bit milder than "Pound 'Em Paul." He is definitely of the old school.

A FIREMAN TO RESCUE. That old appeal, "Fireman, save my child," is holding true in the Crackers' camp.

Guy Green is a fire fighter in good standing all except one month out of the year. And his buddies in the Atlanta department will be pleased to know that he is doing a great job assisting Manager Paul Richards in the development of the Cracker club at Savannah.

The young players praise Green as a coach for "showing us how to do things."

He's saving many a child, so to speak, for baseball stardom. When Guy pitched for Beaumont he was known throughout the Texas league as the "original hard luck Guy."

Del Baker, who coaches for Detroit and subbed for Mickey Cochrane as manager when the latter was beamed, was manager of Beaumont then. And Baker always thought highly of Green.

Guy was on clubs with Hank Greenberg, Jo Jo White, Schoolboy Rowe, Dixie Walker and other Detroit stars. He was like Climax Blethen, a pitcher who was frequently nosed out in the close games.

Now Green takes a month off every year in the spring—Mrs. Green goes with him and they make it their vacation—to assist in coaching the Cracker players.

And he is a very valuable asset. He knew how to pitch and he knows how to show the younger fellows what to do in order to better themselves.

BETTER THAN GREENBERG. Mickey Cochrane describes Rudy York, the Cherokee from Cartersville, as a better natural hitter than Hank Greenberg. And, as "Iron Mike" says, "that is saying a lot."

Cochrane, who is looking for great things from the Georgia boy, does not look upon his home run hitting of last season in the nature of a fluke.

"York is a natural hitter and one of the best young prospects I have ever seen. He is, by trade, a fine first baseman, but he doesn't look at all out of place behind the plate," Cochrane says.

The development of York has made it light on Mickey. The Detroit manager does not have to worry about retiring now because he is assured that the Tiger catching will not suffer.

THE MIZE BOYS. Johnny Mize, of Demorest, is the only Cardinal infielder who has his position sewed up. Mize will hold forth at first base again.

The Gas House Gang likes his spirit and dash, not to mention his hitting. While Johnny continues to make a hit or two with the Cardinals, his brother, Pope, is making a good showing in the Texas league camp of the Dallas Steers.

Pope, who catches, plays first or the outfield, has been as

Dot Kirby Departs On Golf Campaign

Atlanta Champion Will Enter Augusta and Pinehurst Meets; Plays Exhibition Match Saturday.

Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta's southern woman's champion, will leave the city tonight for a two-week golfing campaign in Augusta and North Carolina.

Dorothy will practice Friday either at Augusta or Columbia, S. C., and Saturday will play in an exhibition match at Columbia with Patty Berg, Marion Milley and Kathryn Hemphill.

Next week Kirby will participate in the eighth annual Augusta women's invitation tournament. The following week she will play in the north and south women's championship at Pinehurst, N. C.

That Augusta tournament should rank with the best in the south this year, for it not only includes the best in the amateur ranks, but is open to women professionals as well.

Babe Didrikson, who lost last year to Miley in the finals, has entered and will head a group of outstanding professionals.

With three days remaining in which additional entries may be filed, there is every indication that a new entry list record will be established this season, topping the record mark of 125 couples that bowled last year.

Ten pairs of men and eight women's doubles were signed Wednesday to bowl this Saturday. The games may be rolled at either 1:30, 5 or 7:30 p. m. at either the 1:30 or downtown alleys.

Included in the list of new entries is that popular duo from the Capital City league, John (Cannonball) Camarata and J. B. (Boulton) Emi Green.

From the Ladies Commercial league, Lucille Rawlins, Elizabeth Folk-Grace Mize, Helen Bird-Mrs. Henry Taylor, Margaret Tomlinson-Augusta Smith, Pat Cox-Tommie Carper.

From Kraft-Phoenix Cheese team, Mildred Schenck-Mildred Moon, Louise Marshall-Ethel Moore, Helen Wells-Jessie Dooley are signed.

Frazier Edson-Howard Belle Isle, J. E. McMillan-C. D. David, Bill Thacker-Jack Pearce, A. H. Moore-Paul Robertson, Carl Lyons-Rick Kennedy, Carl Wilson-Edith Hill, E. L. Pearce-Henry Taylor, Roy Acree-H. Cantrell signed from the Capital City and Commercial leagues.

Gold medals will be awarded winners in the men's and in the women's events. No entry fee other than the cost of the games will be charged.

Handicaps apply to all scores, with the men handicapping from 20 per pair each game, and the women having 20 as the top handicap mark.

The entry list will remain open until game time Saturday.

At any rate, the deadly hold, which last year was barred by the city commission, was used, and used brutally last night by Speer. And nothing was done about it. Wycoff, colder than a school teacher's stare, was out for 15 or 20 minutes and naturally could not return for the third fall. The state commission has never declared its stand as regards the hold.

Doug, putting up a fine performance, made the heavier Speer say "enough" with a Boston Crab hold in 22 minutes and the big crowd went haywire. The old tackle came back like a mad bull, but finally deciding that Wycoff wasn't to be denied in his attempt to square things for last week's defeat, picked up Doug, raised his feet high in the air and smashed his head into the mat. It was all over, the finish of a savage bout that saw both men give and take an amazing amount of punishment.

John Katan, a smooth and skillful Canadian, turned in a classy exhibition to pin Billy Bartush once fall in a 60-minute affair and earned the plaudits of the crowd. A top-flying scissor gave Spike Eckert a one-fall win over Ray E'Brien in the opener.

PURPLES MEET ON GRID TODAY

Grudge Game Between Veterans and Newcomers.

By ROY WHITE.

A grudge game between the veterans and the newcomers at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon will end Boys' High's annual spring football drills. A small admission will be charged to go into the Purple's equipment fund.

Captain Jack Bond, of the 1937 eleven, will lead the veterans, with Dan Greer, heading the newcomers' eleven.

A veteran lineup which started a majority of Boys' High's games last fall will face the youngsters. It includes Lanford and Wiley, ends; McCauley and Brown, tackles; Bond and Huck, guards; Rayle, center, and Miller, Sabo, Crouch and Dinkler in the backfield.

Reserves in the line include Brandes, Burke and Pearce, with Coldwell, a guard, tackle or backfield, ready for service wherever needed. Roberts is an extra backfield man for the veterans.

Newcomers include Clark, Luke and McDermott, ends; Eaves, Haire, Handley and DeBardelaben, tackles; Kuniansky, Jordan and Jarvis, guards; Webb, DeFreese and Andel, centers, and Connor, Bromberg, Greer, Barfield and Boykin.

Both teams are taking the game far more seriously than the coaches expected and as a result it will be a case of hands off for the coaches.

Shorty Doyal, Dwight Keith and Bill Orgain are well pleased with the results of the spring practices and when the veterans challenged the youngsters the coaches were all smiles.

"It will give us a chance to really see what we have for next season, for those youngsters are truly out to trim the veterans," Coach Doyal said Wednesday.

Strong arms . . . Ducky Medwick and Johnny Mize rate to run another close race for the National league batting championship. Although Ducky won the title by 10 points over Johnny last season, the gang thinks Mize will outslug Ducky this year. The big Card first sacker, who once was told by a Cincinnati doctor that a growth on his pelvis bone would kill him if he persisted playing baseball, looks greater than ever. Last season, he didn't have a single slump. Even a bean ball couldn't stop him. After the whack on the head he came back and was outslugging Medwick as the race ended.

Old Pepper . . . Hit of the camp, of course, is Pepper Martin. The Wild Hoss of the Osage has assembled his greatest orchestra this spring with Bob Weiland blowing the jug, Lon Warneke doing the guitar, Bill McGee fiddling, French Bordagary on the washboard and Ol' Pepper tooting the harmonica. Frenchy is the sensation. His washboard has the works—a three-tone hone, bicycle bells and even an electric light for special renditions.

Pepper wows 'em daily by um-ping, and the hunch is he's going to become an ump when he gets through playing. But there's one fly in his umping ointment. He's tough to everyone but his orchestra mates.

"So far," says Pepper, "I have not had one of my musicians strike out or get caught off base. It proves my point. Join my orchestra and get a regular's job."

Cards Believe Mize To Outhit Medwick

Demorest, Ga., Boy Looks Great; Paul Dean Slim Because Hogback, Beans Gave Out.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16.—(P)—Spring tints of the St. Louis Gas House Gang as they whoop it up at their spring training base at beautiful St. Petersburg.

Team . . . Although the club is a question mark that can finish anywhere from first to fifth place in the National league, it is in its gayest mood since 1931. Reasons for the high spirits are many. Dizzy Dean helped by falling off his high horse and becoming one of the boys, and so did the Cardinal bosses, who were more liberal this year with the contracts. Bainbridge Hayward, St. Pete hotel man, also did his bit by giving the Gas Housers the run of his hotel, where the boys have their own dining room and can dress and eat as they please. And how they can store away the groceries!

Onkel . . . Manager Frankie Frisch, who has done more worrying since '31 than all other big league pilots together, also is a changed man. "Onkel" Frisch is excited about several good-looking rookies and so far hasn't had to get out of bed at 4 a. m., to explain why this truant didn't do that. "Onkel" has a bad headache. "It's a pleasure to be a manager this year," says "Onkel."

DIZ IS CINCH. No one is worrying about Dizzy's comeback, though the guess among the boys is that Ol' Diz is liable to pop off any day after the season gets started. Paul Dean also is trying a comeback but it's too early to tell. Paul amazed everyone by coming to camp 25 pounds lighter, but the Gas Housers aren't giving him the credit for his weight reduction. "When those pay checks stopped coming," wisecracked the gang, "Paul had to stop eating hogback and beans—and there he is in shape." However, it is doubtful if a pitcher can lay off two years and still come back, especially Paul, who does all his pitching with his arm and not much of it with his head.

Strong arms . . . Ducky Medwick and Johnny Mize rate to run another close race for the National league batting championship. Although Ducky won the title by 10 points over Johnny last season, the gang thinks Mize will outslug Ducky this year. The big Card first sacker, who once was told by a Cincinnati doctor that a growth on his pelvis bone would kill him if he persisted playing baseball, looks greater than ever. Last season, he didn't have a single slump. Even a bean ball couldn't stop him. After the whack on the head he came back and was outslugging Medwick as the race ended.

Old Pepper . . . Hit of the camp, of course, is Pepper Martin. The Wild Hoss of the Osage has assembled his greatest orchestra this spring with Bob Weiland blowing the jug, Lon Warneke doing the guitar, Bill McGee fiddling, French Bordagary on the washboard and Ol' Pepper tooting the harmonica. Frenchy is the sensation. His washboard has the works—a three-tone hone, bicycle bells and even an electric light for special renditions.

Pepper wows 'em daily by um-ping, and the hunch is he's going to become an ump when he gets through playing. But there's one fly in his umping ointment. He's tough to everyone but his orchestra mates.

"So far," says Pepper, "I have not had one of my musicians strike out or get caught off base. It proves my point. Join my orchestra and get a regular's job."

Olympics Definitely Set At Tokyo Sept. 21, 1940

BRUNDAGE SAYS CHANGE IN DATE S BLOW TO U. S.

American College Athletes Will Not Be Able to Compete.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 16.—(AP)—The change in the date of the Olympic games, from August to September, is a blow to the United States, according to the American Olympic committee today.

The committee today confirmed Tokyo as site of the 1940 Olympic games and changed the dates to September 21 to October 6.

Japan's right to hold the games was upheld despite a proposal by the Chinese delegate, Dr. C. T. Tung, that the games not be held in any country at war.

A communique from the I. O. C. said the proposal did not come to vote. The communique stated in view of the Olympic charter and assurances Tokyo was able to prepare for the games, the I. O. C. was "unable to consider" request to hold the games elsewhere.

The change in the dates, originally set for August 25 to September 8, was regarded as a serious blow to the United States by Brundage, of Chicago, one of the American delegates.

The United States will be affected especially by the change," Brundage said, "since American college athletes now will be unable to compete." The new dates conflict with the opening of college terms.

The I. O. C., however, despite the opposition from the United States, Great Britain and France, accepted Japan's suggestion that the change be made in view of the heat prevalent at the time of the August games and the support of the Japanese proposal.

While also confirming Sapporo, Japan, as the site for the winter games, the I. O. C. ruled out ski events. The committee took means of meeting the International Ski Federation's demand I. O. C. accept the federation's condition of an amateur.

Under the new rules, coaches and instructors are permitted to compete in amateur events.

No dates were announced for the winter games.

Daniel J. Ferris, national secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, in confirming Brundage's view that the later dates would be a blow to the United States team, pointed to the large number of graduates or recently graduated athletes who scored for the United States in the 1936 track and field events at Berlin.

Most prominent was Jesse Owens, winner of the 100-meter and 200-meter sprints and the broad jump and member of the winning 4x100-meter relay team. Others were in Woodruff, 800-meter champion; Archie Williams, 400-meter champion; (Spec) Towns and Glenn Dier, 110-meter and 400-meter runners, respectively; Cornelius Johnson, high jump, and Earle Meadows, pole vault.

Olympic Date Change Draws Criticism.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—Graduate managers of Stanford and University of California criticized changing of the date for the 1940 Olympic games today.

Stanford graduate manager, Kenneth Priestley, California, said, "It would be up to the university to weigh the advantages of Olympic fame against months of educational work."

"We ought to withdraw from the Olympics right now," he said. "We ought to withdraw from the Olympics right now."

Bob Ison Reinjures Knee in Jacket Drill

Golds' Star End Not Believed Lost for Game Saturday; Tharpe, Dodd Fear Overconfidence.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Despite slushy turf, Georgia Tech's football "teams" were sent through two hours of work yesterday as rival coaches sought to make the most of the few remaining practice days before the regulation game Saturday afternoon at Grant Field.

Bob Ison, pass-snagging flankman on the Gold eleven, re-injured a weak knee in charging drills and may not be able to play Saturday. The hurt is not considered serious, but the knee will likely be sore for some time, and even should Ison get into the game, he cannot perform at full speed.

His loss will be a serious blow to the Dodd-Tharpe eleven since Bob is considered probably the finest pass receiver on either team.

TEAMS DRILL HARD.

Mack Tharpe and Bobby Dodd sent their Golds through a long practice on pass defense, charging, blocking and signal calling, while Coaches Roy McArthur, Fletcher Sims and Ralph Hood devoted almost the entire afternoon to signals.

The Golds left the field before the Green but Coaches Dodd and Tharpe hung around just to be sure McArthur didn't teach his players any tricks.

Both teams' coaches announced they would start "tapering off" with today's practice.

Overconfidence is the one thing which has Dodd and Tharpe sitting up nights. Evidently the Golds have little respect for the ability of the Greens and are very likely to be surprised on Saturday.

GOLDS OVERCONFIDENT.

"They just won't take the game seriously," Dodd and Tharpe sang in a fitting duet. "Of course, McArthur's boys won't give us much trouble—especially when we use our trick plays—but if the boys keep up their present attitude, we may not win by over 50 or 60 points."

The Greens, who would like nothing better than to defeat their experienced brothers, are not saying much. They intend to do their talking on the field.

After practice McArthur openly accused Tharpe of borrowing one of his star tackles and working him too hard. McArthur charged the Gold coach intentionally made the Green man work harder than the other players, hoping to wear him out by game time.

Tharpe was acquitted, however, on the grounds that he is color blind and can't tell green from gold.

EASTERLING, KELLEY WIN FOR A'S.

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 16.—Paul Easterling's double in the eleventh inning today gave the Philadelphia Athletics an uphill 3-2 victory over Beaumont of the Texas league. Two were out when the winning run scored.

The veteran Harry Kelley got off to a shaky start, but tightened up after the second inning and pitched in mid-season form for the last nine frames. He yielded only seven hits, four of them in the first two innings when Beaumont scored all their runs.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 16.—Larry McPhail, the "Mr. Big" of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said today he is making no effort to have holdout outfielder Henne Manush return to camp.

Manush left camp several days ago after failing to come to terms. "Manush is asking more money per line than Ducky Medwick will get from the Cardinals," said McPhail. "He admits he won't be able to play more than 100 games this year."

YANKEES TRIP BEES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16.—Belting Bill Dickey's three-base wallop with two on in the sixth inning broke up a pitchers' battle today and gave the New York Yankees a 2-to-0 Grapefruit league win over the Boston Bees.

INSURGENT PLANES BOMB BARCELONA

14 Known Dead, 22 Injured
as Raiders Attack Loyalist Rally.

BARCELONA, March 16.—(AP)—Insurgent planes tonight inflicted the heaviest bombing on Barcelona the city has yet suffered.

Casualties still were not completely counted but at least 14 were known dead and 20 were injured.

Streets Jammed.

The raiders came in waves for more than three hours, starting when the streets were jammed with demonstrators demanding that the government continue its resistance at all costs.

More bombs fell than in any previous air attack. Many buildings in the center of the city were struck and huge clouds of smoke from fires in shattered structures blotted out the clear sky.

Many near-by towns also were bombed.

The first Insurgent bombs scattered thousands of Catalonians who earlier had massed around the President's palace to hear fiery speeches of trade union and political leaders assuring them of the loyalty of their army and the determination of their government.

Air Raid Alarm.

Then, following a sound truck, the crowds began winding through the streets when the whine of sirens gave the air-raid alarm.

The rally dissolved amid the sounds of bombs and anti-aircraft fire. One fire started and at least two bombs crashed near the city center. Casualties were not reported.

The demonstration followed reports the Insurgent drive eastward toward Catalonia and the Mediterranean had been halted.

LOYALISTS IMPERIL BIGGEST OFFENSIVE

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), March 16.—(AP)—Insurgent field artillery blasted Caspe into ruins today in an effort to dislodge government troops menacing the left flank of the Insurgent army marching toward the sea.

While trying to drive this stubborn government force northward across the Ebro river, the Insurgents ranged widely through their 3,000 square miles of newly-conquered territory, mopping up straggling government units and re-establishing lines of communication.

Seize Highway.

General Franco's fast-moving troops, which in less than a week penetrated more than 60 miles into government territory east of the old Zaragoza-Teruel line, seized control of the important Montalban-Ancaniz highway and sent advance parties through the San Just mountains southeast of Montalban.

But at Caspe, which they overran and failed to properly clean up in their hasty advance, the Insurgents were confronted with government resistance which threatened to stall their entire drive unless quickly overcome.

Calls Reinforcements.

General Franco called up reinforcements to prevent his drive—the greatest offensive of the Spanish civil war—from stopping. His great spring thrust is aimed at dismembering government Spain and forcing quick capitulation of the Barcelona government.

General Franco checked his eastward drive at Raimundo—approximately 35 miles from the Mediterranean—and rushed troops from his main body back to Caspe to help smash government resistance. The government had sent reinforcements into the city from across the Ebro river.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 16.—The Washington Senators tested the St. Louis Cardinals, 15 to 13, in a raggedly played exhibition baseball game here today.

President Roosevelt's Own Story of the New Deal

Contained in an authorized advance publication of his notes and comments to "The Public Papers and Addresses of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

New and hitherto unpublished writings by the President

From the time before his first inauguration — when occurred his historic meetings with President Hoover — until 1937, President Roosevelt writes of the outstanding events, activities and objectives of his Administration in a series of comments previously undisclosed. They form notes to five forthcoming books by the President.

These comments, chosen for their widest and most timely interest, have been arranged as a series of newspaper articles for presentation daily.

They form a history and an explanation of the New Deal written by the man who established it. They name the problems which the present Administration has faced, describe the steps it has taken to overcome them, and make clear principles determining those steps.

The topics the President discusses embrace both national and international affairs. They range from neutrality, world-peace, munitions embargoes, to farming, regional planning, conservation, to currency, securities regulation and holding companies. They touch upon such dramatic events as The Hundred Days and the bank holiday, and upon a number of incidents revealing human side-lights of the nation's chief executive and his office.

Georgia FHA Director

R. EUGENE MATHESON.

MATHESON NAMED GEORGIA FHA CHIEF

Acting Director Appointed Following Conference at White House.

R. Eugene Matheson, of Hartwell, has been appointed director of the Federal Housing Administration for Georgia, it was announced in Washington yesterday.

He succeeds William A. Sirmion, who resigned recently to enter private business.

Matheson has been serving as acting housing administrator since Sirmion's unexpected resignation and previously was associate state director of the administration, having been appointed July 15, 1937.

Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald has had Matheson's name under consideration for more than a week and after a conference at the White House yesterday, the appointment was made.

Matheson had the endorsement of Senators Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell Jr. and Representative Paul Brown, of Elberton.

During the administration of Governor L. G. Hardman, Matheson was appointed to membership on the State Revenue Commission and served seven years until removed by Governor Talmadge. He then re-entered private business.

STATE TO REFUND WELFARE EXPENSES

Counties To Be Reimbursed 90 Per Cent of Administrative Costs.

Director Lamar Murdaugh announced yesterday the Georgia Department of Public Welfare would reimburse each county for 90 per cent of its welfare administrative cost, beginning with the month of February.

The figure is set by the state social security law. Heretofore, however, special arrangements have been in operation in many counties, with some contributing what they considered more than their share toward administrative expenses.

Murdaugh estimated the total administrative cost under the new "permanent plan of operation" at $40,000 a month, with $4,000 to be paid by the counties.

Under the law the state, with the aid of federal funds, must pay 90 per cent of the pensions and benefit costs, leaving the counties 10 per cent.

Attainment of a permanent system of operation as speedily as possible was one of the promises of Governor Rivers at the recent legislative session to aid counties to offset effects of the homestead and personality tax exemption laws.

"The new plan," said a departmental statement, "calls for the county to remit, with its monthly requisitions for pensions and other payments, 10 per cent of the total benefits to be paid in that county for the month. For administrative expense, the county will pay all the operating costs for the month, and then will be reimbursed for 90 per cent of the money."

COMMITTEE TO GET RELIEF DATA TODAY

Job To Report on Work Done in State With Federal Funds.

Reports from commissioners, school heads and other officials of 140 counties on what they think of federal relief work will be laid before the 15 members of the state appraisal committee today by State Planning Director Richard C. Job.

Job announced reports from each state department which has used relief work: also would be submitted. The reports cover the four-year period of activity by such agencies as CWA, FERA, PWA, WPA and CCC, that have used federal funds for a wide variety of activities, ranging from raking out forest trails to constructing sizable public buildings.

The reports, Job said, are result of a questionnaire sent out several weeks ago, asking county officials for their valuation of these activities.

Job said a preliminary survey of the answers indicated a big majority of counties affected felt work relief had been of some permanent value.

The planning director said the appraisal committee would compile a state-wide report for submission to federal authorities as part of the national community improvement appraisal, designed as a basis of future relief work planning.

Voluminous reports have been received from some counties and state departments. Job said he hoped to receive answers from some of the missing counties before the meeting at 10 o'clock this morning.

The appraisal committee is composed of leaders in public health, welfare and education.

MITCHELL STREET AT BROAD

Dock Street Theater Refurbished From Old Mitchell King Mansion

By Sally Forth.

THE Dock Street theater, which opened recently in Charleston, S. C., owes much of its success to the action of the city of Charleston and the Charleston Museum in making available the interior decoration from the old Mitchell King mansion.

This wonderfully beautiful old home where Judge Mitchell King, the grandfather of Atlanta's Mitchell King, lived and entertained General Robert E. Lee, Thackeray, and many other notables of his day, was the meeting place of Timrod, Hayne and Gilmore Simms for their discussions of the coming of a new literature of the south just prior to the War Between the States.

The original Dock Street theater opened in 1736 and was the first building designed for theatrical use in America. Since that time it has been destroyed by fire and rebuilt several times. "The Dock Street Theater," a pamphlet reprinted from the January edition of "Magazine of Art," describes the newly re-established theater as "a combination of eighteenth century theater; a group of simple, early Charleston dwelling houses; an example of the classic revival; and the harmonious incorporation of interior decoration removed from the old King mansion." This mansion not only brings to the newer structure its beauty of plaster and woodwork, but its wealth of tradition extending far back into Charleston's past.

The green room, situated to the right of the lobby at the end of a short passage, can accommodate an audience of 200 for intimate recitals or lectures, or can be used as a ballroom. Here the plaster decoration, door and window frames of the King mansion have been utilized effectively. The Adam mantelpiece, dating from 1806 and placed in this room, as well as all the Adam ornament for the theater, was

TED MORRISON JR. idolizes his father, the Rev. Ted Morrison, who is assistant rector at St. Luke's, and is his constant companion when the rector is not busy. However, being scarcely three, he had never been allowed to go to church to hear his father preach, and that was the one thing he wanted most to do.

But one evening recently when Rev. Morrison was scheduled to occupy the pulpit, Mrs. Morrison gave way to her son's pleas and decided to let him accompany her to church. The little boy sat wide-eyed with wonder at the brilliantly lighted church and the proceedings of the meeting, and all went well until he saw his father ascend to the pulpit.

He called aloud to him. But his father evidently did not hear. Again he called, "Daddy, Daddy," he shrieked in his childish glee, "I wanna come up there where you are."

It was some moments before Mrs. Morrison could quiet him, for never before had he been forced to admire his father from a distance, so to speak.

"It would not have been so embarrassing," explained Mrs. Morrison, "if the rector had not prepared his sermon that evening on 'The Psychology of the Home and the Proper Rearing of Children.'"

JANE DAVISON WARNER, who is the Boxwood Garden Club flower chairman for the flower show to be held on May 5 and 6 at the Driving Club, has her daughter, Betty Jane, taking the preparations for the flower show very seriously.

It just so happens that Jane has the responsibility of keeping a notebook that contains the list of flower arrangements with the names of club members to work on each one—a position high, mighty and too, too important at this particular time. Hence, she laughingly remarked to her eight-year-old daughter, Betty Jane: "Should I die or anything before this show, be sure to get this book to Stella Wellborn." Stella is president of the Boxwood Club, you know.

Jane, it seems, contracted a cold several days later which must have worried Betty Jane considerably. The next time her mother took a look at the notebook, she found this gentle reminder written across the first page, "If mother dies, be sure to get this book to Stella Wellborn!"

Summer Flowering Bulbs Discussed At Constitution Garden School

Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, of Decatur, nationally known horticulturist, who directs The Constitution's free garden school today and tomorrow at the Atlanta Woman's Club. Mrs. Crown speaks on "Roses" today and will be introduced by Dr. L. C. Fischer, an ardent rosarian. The doors open at 9 o'clock and the school continues from 10 to 11:30 o'clock, with a fashion show and moving picture as added attractions.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

There was no chant of "Mary, Mary, quite contrary, how does your garden grow?" yesterday at the opening sessions of The Constitution three-day Garden School, for all the Marys in the audience were there with notebooks and pencils in hand to learn their lesson from the teacher, Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown.

Yesterday's lesson was on "Summer Flowering Bulbs" and Mrs. Crown gave practical and illustrative advice on the care and culture of the bulbs. Last night there was plenty of "cramming" in true examination manner as the "students" sought to learn their lessons before putting them into practical use in their gardens after school days are over.

In discussing bulbs and their culture, Mrs. Crown pointed out many interesting features regarding the care and preparation. In choosing this subject for the first day's lecture she selected a theme which has far-reaching appeal to all.

She said: "So many bulbs can be planted now for summer blooming that even the amateur gardener, by planting them now will, by next fall, be well informed on their care and cultivation. Among the most important of these bulbs are the dahlias. It is safe to plant them now for there seems to be no evidence of another freeze. The giant type are for shows and for decorative features only. They have no place in the small home where an artistic motif must be carried out. These are the dwarf species and grow from 18 inches to two feet in height.

"Dahlias need plenty of sun and must be planted in loose soil. The ground should be prepared now and it is a good idea to work in coal ashes with the ground. The bulbs should not be planted right after a rain. They should be planted at least three feet deep and in a three-foot square. The dwarf variety require a 15-inch square. In planting the tubers they must be laid lengthwise in the ground. Always remember that the largest tubers do not always make the best flowering plant. Good eyes on the tuber are what really count. Dahlia seed may be planted now indoors in boxes or pots and transplanted into the yard in April. They will bloom in July. In the fall they should be dug up for winter care. In all, dahlias are among the most satisfactory of the summer flowering bulbs."

Another summer flowering bulb which Mrs. Crown gave detailed instructions on were gladioli. She spoke of the time element in the planting saying that some will bloom in 60 days, while others require 75, 90 and 115 days. For this reason, she said, one can determine just when to plant the bulbs for flower show display. "Gladioli like plenty of sun and food and should be planted six inches deep, and covered entirely with soil. They can be planted from the first of March until the last of June. Double rows 15 inches apart with a trench on either side are best planting methods. In buying bulbs, height and not width should be considered. The height determines the flower."

Mrs. Crown, in her usual interesting and easy style of presenting her subject to her "students," employed a blackboard for use in illustrating plant methods and other descriptive phases of her lecture. She also had on display bulbs of every description which if planted now will result in summer blooming. The advantage and beauty of planting bulbs is the ability of dividing them. Calla lilies tie in well with lily pool arrangements. Canna lilies, which have staged a comeback in horticultural circles, have undergone a transformation and now resemble orchids may be planted now and interspersed with perennials make an effective color as well as floral scheme.

Coral vine may be planted now, said Mrs. Crown, but should be in a pot, and later transplanted into the yard with something for it to climb on.

Spider lilies should not be planted too deep and may be grown in sun or shade. Iris, ever a favorite among gardeners, may be planted any month. In buying tuberoses, it is well to remember that the single flower blooms more than the double variety.

G. S. C. W. Alumnae.

The G. S. C. W. Alumnae Club of Atlanta will be entertained March 19 at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Logan Thompson, Marietta road. Information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Logan Thompson or Mrs. J. Schley Thompson at Cherokee 9041.

Those who are going will meet at 150 Fonce de Leon avenue at 2 o'clock and cars will be provided for the trip to Mrs. Thompson's. An interesting program has been planned by the hostesses.

Costume Jewelry Goes Wild—in Both Color and Design

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

FRESNO, Cal., Tuesday.—We reached San Francisco about noon yesterday. It was fortunate for us that Mr. Paul Posz, the head of the bureau which had charge of my San Francisco lecture, came on board the train at Burlingame. It gave us an opportunity to discuss the plans for a very busy day. When we arrived at our hotel, we found a great deal of mail, a great many flowers and a telephone which never stopped ringing for more than three minutes.

Days such as yesterday are really very hectic. Neither Miss Chaney, Mrs. Scheider nor I had enough time to eat lunch. We had a glass of milk and graham crackers and then sallied forth at 1:45, leaving piles of mail and telegrams unopened. Mrs. George Creel, who is the United States commissioner for the Golden Gate International Exposition; the mayor, and representatives of the army, navy and marine corps, accompanied us to Treasure Island, where I was to assist in the ceremonies incidental to the breaking of ground for the federal building.

I think they have chosen a delightful name for this island, which has been built on an underwater bank with WPA labor. It will, eventually, be an airport. First, however, it will be the site of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition. We hope it will contain so many treasures of beauty and educational value that the whole of the United States will profit by the work which has been done there.

We went through the streets preceded and followed by motorcycle police in spite of my objection to noise. However, it did get us to our destination quickly.

On the way home we visited a nursery school, conducted in the Chinese Y. M. C. A., for little Chinese-Americans. Characteristic arrangements of water and flowers, which only Oriental people seem to be able to produce, have given their building great charm. The children seemed happy and the same regimen is carried as in any other nursery school. All their mothers work, so this school is a real help to them.

We left the nursery school, shed all our protective formal escorts and wandered through Chinatown. The three of us visited one of the shops we had visited on a previous trip, and later made our way into the business section of the city to see a shop run by Miss Chaney's sisters. Back at the hotel, we had a number of visitors. We finally had to ask to have our telephone cut off, or we would never have been dressed and had time to eat our dinner before Mr. Posz called for us to go to the lecture.

I was a little troubled by the prospect of speaking in the civic auditorium, but the arrangements were excellent. On account of the large number of people still coming in, we had to wait quite a while before going on the stage. However, I managed to get on the platform without too visible a case of stage fright. After the lecture, we left immediately for Fresno.

The morning here has been busy. Two hours were spent in visiting National Youth Administration projects. They are exceptionally interesting to me because they represent what can be done for agricultural youth and are also an achievement in co-operation between the public works department of Fresno and the NYA. A number of young people have been taken on in every division of this department and are obtaining excellent work training.

Blouse and Skirt A LA GIBSON GIRL.

At the turn of the century, smart ladies knew the charm of a softly tailored blouse that really bloused, worn with a dark skirt. Smart ladies of this spring 1938 have discovered how right they were, and this blouse-and-skirt combination is one of the most flattering and fashion-right styles you can wear! This Barbara Bell pattern enables you to make it very easily.

Notice that you can make it with either short flared sleeves or long, billowy sleeves that make your hands look small and fragile. The blouse, whether of cotton or silk, should be made of a soft material that adapts itself gracefully to fullness; chiffon, georgette or very fine batiste. And choose white or delicate pastel for the color. Make the skirt in a dark shade, of taffeta, silk crepe or sheer wool.

Like all Barbara Bell patterns, this brings you a complete sew chart explaining every step of the making.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1486-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 2 yards of 39-inch material for a long-sleeved blouse; 1 5/8 yards for the short-sleeved; 2 3/4 yards of 39-inch material for the skirt.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: A time or two you have discussed the subject of a child's financial duty to a parent but I want to hear how much time a young married couple owe their parents. My husband and I work and have a small home which we keep very easily as we have labor saving devices. His family lives 15 miles away and we average going there for an evening twice a week. If we miss tonight we make it up tomorrow night and so on. My husband is an only child and his mother has devoted her life to her husband and him. Consequently she hasn't any other interests though she is only 40, hale and hearty.

They are lovely in-laws and really think they are doing us a favor in relieving us of preparing our dinner, which makes the problem more difficult. As it is, we have no time to cultivate friends among the young marrieds for every spare moment must be spent going to visit in-laws. My husband agrees that once a week should be ample but he isn't willing to hurt his mother's feelings. So we go and go.

I want to do what's fair and reasonable but I don't want to turn on my in-laws and if I don't get some relief from visiting them that's what will happen. You have no idea how many excuses they can think up for getting us over for an extra meal; visiting relatives (and they have a huge connection), special holidays, anniversaries and the like. Now Miss Chatfield don't stand me up. Help me.

Answer: That's a hot spot you're in and frankly I don't know how you are going to get out unless you have a talk with M-I-L explaining to her that you feel the strain of working all day, then riding 15 miles for visits and 15 miles back again to bed. Maybe she will see the point and let you off with one thing a week or Sunday dinner.

Try to put yourself in her place (she's at your mercy, you know) and you will find it easier to be generous with her. It hasn't occurred to her that her boy and his wife want a life apart from her any more than she wants one apart from them. She doesn't realize that your visits entail a sacrifice. Your husband is her boy, her idol and she's probably patting herself on the back for having taken you in on the ground floor with him. There's the sentimental side.

However, it's a big mistake to settle any family question on the basis of sentiment alone. Common sense is indispensable to every human relationship and the doing mother hasn't much, or she wouldn't be in the fix she finds herself; sucking the life out of her married children, insisting that they spend all their leisure hours with her.

Common sense says moderation in all things and you are hitting it up to too fast a clip. Unless you slow down, your husband will have formed the habit of answering every call his mother makes and she will make more, not less, as time goes on. Before many years have passed you will find yourself in a predicament similar to hers; no outside interests or friends, no social life apart from your husband's family.

If that sounds cruel, I'm sor-

If you feel the need of cheering up, better hasten to the costume jewelry department of your favorite store.

Designers of jewelry of this type have simply gone wild. You can be an old-fashioned girl in coral—the round beads or the branch type, or in replicas of mother's and grandmother's chains and lockets. You can have "birds, beasts and fishes"—or insects—on the lapel of the coat at your throat or clipped to dress or hat. You can wear the loveliest flowers in enamels and metals, in exquisite colors. And you can wear pearls—many of them, a large clip, for instance, like a bunch of grapes, and necklaces galore.

Necklaces were never more original. Some of them, accompanied by matching bracelets, are reminiscent of the festive Hottentot, and the wearer would feel perfectly at home beating a tom-tom. I hope Hottentots do beat tom-toms, by the way.

Brilliant colors are combined in this jewelry. Gold and bright red, gold and silver with every other color of the rainbow. Some sets are in the pastel shades—palest yellows, blues and pinks—the latter very popular and worn with every color.

A bit of spring out of the jungle's depths is shown worn in the lapel of the long-jacketed oxford gray suit. It is a double-petaled African daisy in a 24-karat gold finish clip mounted in blue petals. It may be obtained also in red with silver petals, which is particularly suitable for a navy gabardine suit. This clip is from the designer Monet. A suede bag with the model's initials, fur neckpiece and a hat with a wide, upturned brim, she is quite ready for the Easter parade.

HARDLY AN EXCUSE.

Medieval ladies took their draperies along when they went on a trip.

There weren't any curtains in homes of very olden days for the simple reason that there weren't any windows. In medieval castles mere slits in the great stone piles of castles brought in a bit of daylight but hardly served as an excuse for hanging curtains.

But the great eating halls and reception chambers had to be beautified in some way. So the great lady of those days did just what a modern woman would do. She said to her lord and master, "See here, I've got to get some cloth to make this barn more livable." And since her lord was not able to hand her a check and tell her to call in a decorator, he became a patron of the art of weaving and when he could find no adequate weavers in his own bailiwick, he went to war and fought for—among other things—skillful fingers and precious looms. And so rare tapestries became the main decoration of those castles.

When great ladies went traveling they took their fine hangings of brocade, velvet, damask and satin along. Best known of these perhaps were the gorgeous fabrics that Beatrice d'Este took with her on her Venetian visits. Wherever she stopped en route became a jewel-like background for a lovely lady.

Incidentally, hangings in those days served some practical purpose—they helped to take the chill off of those bleak stone walls. Later as homes came down to earth a bit and windows and doors became bigger and more important, draperies were used to

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THRU THE PAINTER'S HANDS.

Curious contributions featured in recent issue of the Journal A. M. A., purports to furnish "proof" that various volatile oils, potent alkaloids such as morphine, strychnine, quinine, atropine, pilocarpine, cocaine and nicotine are absorbed through the unbroken skin. The contribution fails to reveal just what the evidence or "proof" is—probably the dimwit medical profession will accept the thing as "proved" on the mere say-so of the Pooh-Bah and his yes-men. So far as the article indicates, the "proof" consists in the fact that the experimenter was able to find some of the substances mentioned present in the urine after they had been applied to the skin of the test animal.

We have known for many years that certain volatile substances are readily demonstrated in the urine after the substance, say iodine, has been applied to the skin. But that is by no means good evidence that the substance has been absorbed through the skin. We have known for many years that it is not difficult to poison a person with mercury by applying mercury ointment to the skin in considerable excess and not washing it away for a day or two. Neither is that proof that mercury is absorbed through the skin. In fact, intelligent physicians have long recognized that the systemic effects in such instances are due to inhalation of the iodine or the mercury which is volatilized by friction and by the heat of the body.

Eastern reader had lead poisoning last summer. His doctor said he was poisoned by lead paint which he absorbed through his hands and that had he worn gloves he would not have been poisoned. The patient, a painter by trade, says he had inhaled a good deal of dust while scraping old paint from houses preparatory to repainting. The physician in this instance is in a sad minority. All authorities now agree that lead poisoning in industry is almost entirely from inhalation of lead fumes or lead dust—perhaps some of the dust is swallowed in the saliva, but the poisoning is chiefly from lead entering through the respiratory mucous membrane.

However, the physician who assures the painter that wearing gloves would protect him against the hazard of chronic lead poisoning may find comfort in the apparent determination of the Great Pooh-Bah to keep the human hide permeable, if only to make a monkey out of me. Monkey-like, I'm still willing to stake everything on a fair, scientifically controlled test on my own skin if anybody of standing has the courage to accept the challenge.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Frostbite.

Early in February I had the uncomfortable experience of a frostbitten nose. I rubbed it with snow, which did the trick, but my friends said that was foolish. If so, how should one treat such frostbite? (M. H. E.)

Answer—Simply by kneading or rolling the blanched part very gently with the warm palm, carefully avoiding friction, and discontinuing the treatment the instant the blanched appearance goes and pink flush returns. Applying snow, ice or cold is sheer oldwives superstition, and there are still plenty of oldwives holding forth as general practitioners and leading specialists.

Fattening.

Is mineral oil fattening? Is yeast fattening? (Miss L. S.)

Answer—Mineral oil is neither fattening nor of any nutritive value. Yeast often helps to put on weight, particularly irradiated yeast tablets, if one is underweight. It does not increase weight above normal.

If Child Has Worms.

How can I tell if a child four years old has worms? (G. M.)

Answer—Only by finding worms in the feces etc. A physician can tell only by finding worms, or by finding their eggs under microscope. Send 10 cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address for booklet "Unbidden Guests."

Miss Jamison, you will agree, is a vigorous believer in exercise, and she does not coast along on her bicycling. Her superb posture, graceful walk and perfect figure are the rewards of a rigorous discipline imposed by her army officer father. She was brought up on the idea that the military adds two inches to every soldier's height by pulling up the slack in his posture, and, like any soldier she was taught to stand and walk "tall."

One of her routines was the regiment's weight-shifting drill, which aids smoothness and precision of movement. Here's the way you do it:

With head up, back straight, let the hands fall limply to the sides. Then, standing on one leg with knee straight, circle the other leg from front to back. Shift the weight to the other leg and repeat the routine. This exercise is practiced for long periods to acquire a rhythmic movement and perfect balance. (By the way, girls, that exercise will give you slim hips and lovely thighs!)

A posture exercise recommended by Miss Jamison is the following: Lie face downward on the floor with arms stretched out at the sides and legs held stiff. Rock back and forth, using the abdomen as a pivot and keeping the chest inflated. Now, clasp the hands behind the back and raise the shoulders and the legs backward as

TAKE THESE PHOTOGRAPH TIPS; HAVE SUCCESS WITH CAMERA

Now that they're out of the dud class—Jack and Helen know what fun photography can be.

No longer does Bill—their one-time victim—squint horribly in a glare which turns his face into a checkerboard of shadows. Nor does a bush surprisingly appear in the print—looking as large as Bill and twice as important—a bush Jack didn't see!

Simple pointers on lighting and composition put an end to such failures—and turned Jack and Helen into the crack photographers of the crowd.

Easy to avoid disfiguring shadows in your pictures. Don't let your subject face the sun. Have the light fall from an angle—and get your lens according to the light available.

Between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. on a bright spring day it's safe to set the lens at f.11—exposure 1-25 second. Later or earlier, though the light may seem as bright, set the lens wider—at f.8—exposure 1-25 second.

What to do if you've a fixed-focus camera—usually requires lots of sunlight? Take portraits with time-exposures.

Now for the fun of "composing" your picture. Look around to be sure there's no odd post or sign to be picked up by your camera's all-seeing eye. A high hedge is a good background. Catch your subject off-guard if you can. But if you can't, get him to do something—hold a cigarette as if lighting it, raise his hand for a "hello."

IRISH COLLEEN BELIEVES IN EXERCISE BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Even on St. Patrick's Day you have to get up early in the morning to get ahead of the Irish. The Irish colleens, famous for their beautiful complexions, good figures and irrepressible vivacity, as well as their disarming wit, are out of doors pedaling their bicycles and drinking in the fresh salty air long before their American sisters tumble out of bed.

You can imagine the surprise of the Hollywood milkmen who encounter a lovely Irish colleen pedaling her "bike" up and down Beverly Hills at 6 a. m. They probably think she is piqued, but it is just a good old Irish custom, and one widely endorsed for its beauty value. How well this rise-early-to-bike custom pays is illustrated by the good looks of Anne Jamison, an energetic daughter of Erin who is winning laurels as a radio and concert singer in this country.

Maybe it isn't luck that the colleens are all so pretty. With this sort of exercise program it would be impossible not to have the superb figure and high vitality that are the essentials of beauty.

NEWS FROM THE STUDIOS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 16.—Richard Dix has been hiding in "B" pictures far too long for this columnist. But here's good news for the Dix fans. R-K-O-Radio plans to bring him back into the open with the story, "Ground Crew," an epic of aviation that deals mostly with the unsung heroes who work on the ground. The picture is said to contain all the popular elements of "Cimarron," in which Dix scored his last outstanding "A" hit.

Deanna Durbin delves into love stuff with a vengeance in her next picture, "That Certain Age." She not only has one romantic interest, but the boy friend will have a rival for Deanna's affections. Mrs. Hedenberg Gives Tea at Her Home For Mrs. Welton

Mrs. Charles Hedenberg entertained at a tea yesterday at her home on Fairview avenue, as a complimentary gesture to Mrs. Felix Welton, who recently returned from Shanghai, China, where she spent six years serving as a missionary from the Decatur Presbyterian church.

The home was beautified with jonquils, hyacinths and apple blossoms, and the lace-covered table in the dining room was centered with a cut glass vase filled with jonquils and yellow hyacinths.

Crystal candelabra held green tapers, and Mrs. Rhoda Langford presided at the silver tea service. Miss Susan Gardner poured coffee from the silver service placed at one end of the exquisitely appointed table. The tea served at the party was brought from China by Mrs. Welton.

Mrs. Welton talked on the need of more missionaries and better hospital equipment in China to 30 guests invited to meet her at the tea. As the former Miss Frances Gardner, she was born and reared in Gainesville, and is visiting her mother, Mrs. Lucy Gardner, at her home in Decatur.

Miss Catherine Tietz Fetes Dramatic Club.

Miss Catherine Tietz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tietz, was hostess recently at a luncheon honoring the officers and members of the Junior Dramatic Club. Miss Tietz entertained her guests in her newly-erected recreation hall.

A meeting was held after luncheon with the following officers presiding: Miss Virginia Forward, president; Miss Catherine Tietz, vice president; Miss Christina Biggers, secretary; Miss Jane Adams, treasurer; Miss Rosemary Murphy, sergeant at arms, and Miss Bette Colburn, dramatic director.

Many plans were discussed for the club, including a skating party at Lakewood on March 26. A swimming party will be held soon at the Atlanta Athletic Club. The club's play, "The Villain Always Loses," will be presented this month at the Sacred Heart school auditorium. Those who will take part are Misses Virginia Forward, Bette Colburn, Isabel Rapier, Jane Adams and Rosemary Murphy. Miss Virginia Forward, president, and Miss Bette Colburn had leading roles in a recent radio play over WATL.

Heavy rains yesterday dispelled threats of drought in Fulton county and many other sections of Georgia, bringing smiles to the faces of farmers.

Rains were expected to continue in some sections but fair and cooler weather was predicted for Atlanta today. Though rains have been heavy, they will not cause rivers and streams to rise to flood stage, the weatherman said.

In Atlanta more than an inch of rain fell during the 24 hours ending early yesterday. Columbus reported the heaviest rainfall for the same period, 3.92 inches. Tallapoosa had 2.3 inches; West Point 1.95, and LaGrange .90.

Forecaster George Mindling predicted that the extreme southern portion of the state, where rain is most needed, might not feel full benefits of the rainstorm.

The State Department of Agriculture said the rain will stimulate farming operations materially and officials said crops already planted in south Georgia would be aided. North Georgia farmers can now start plowing, they said.

Atlanta's rainfall was the heaviest in five months, the weather bureau reported.

Temperatures yesterday ranged between 58 and 66 degrees here and the low prediction for this morning is approximately 50 degrees.

The rain was badly needed in Atlanta where the precipitation for the past four months has been much below normal. Yesterday afternoon, things already had taken on a greener hue and vegetation apparently had taken new life.

Rainfall for Atlanta from November through February had been only 7.19 inches, the lowest amount for these months since 1882.

POOR RELATION

INSTALLMENT XV.

She danced with Richard who was in high spirits tonight.

"Katha, I'm enjoying this tremendously. It makes me realize I've been devoting entirely too much time to business and too little to pleasure. When I get everything straightened out, I'm going to retire. And I hope that will be quite soon. Then Evelyn and I will travel and spend part of the year on the farm in Maryland. Autumn in Maryland is particularly beautiful. We won't have a single tie when the girls marry." He laughed. "It looks as if Lois will be the first to marry, doesn't it? After all the young men who've been running after Millicent since she was 16, it looks as if Lois will get married first."

She smiled. "I think you are going to know him very well and like him more all the time. In fact, I think Terry is going to be a permanent fixture. And, Uncle Richard, I think you should let them get married."

"If that's what they want and they're sure of each other, I won't try to stop them." He frowned suddenly. "You know, something is bothering Evelyn tonight. Have you noticed? There's nothing wrong here certainly. It's a beautiful party and everyone's having a grand time. She does know how to manage a party, doesn't she? I wish I knew what's troubling her. I know her so well that I know the instant she is worried about something. I asked her but she said it was nothing."

"I'm going home tomorrow, Uncle Richard. I may not see you again to thank you for everything."

"Give Grace and John and the twins my love. I'm going to write them and tell them I've been proud of you. I wish they were here tonight." He chuckled.

Katha's surprise lasted only a moment. Then she understood. Kemp arose, said, "Why, Millicent! What..."

She did not look bored now, nor spoiled, nor indifferent. Her lovely blue eyes pleaded.

"I came back... I rushed back. Mother told me to come! She said it was my last chance with you."

Katha said, "Kemp has just been asking me to marry him. You said you didn't care any longer?"

"But I do care! I cared then! I care so much! Kemp... I was wrong about everything. I've been unreasonable and jealous and crazy. Oh, I thought it out. That's all I've been doing—thinking it out ever since I've been away! I love you and I'll marry you to-night, if you still want me, and go anywhere, anywhere with you."

"If I'm not too late. I won't be difficult any more. I've been through such a miserable time I've wanted to die. If you'll just forgive me..."

Kemp just looked at her. Katha said, "I never told him away from you. I never tried, Millicent. I just happened to be here and I wanted to make you jealous."

She smiled at Kemp who looked very confused and embarrassed. "You needn't be embarrassed, Kemp, on my account. I've known all the time that it was first Millicent and then I. You tried so hard to make yourself believe you were terribly in love with me—that I'd be better for you than Millicent. But you never really wanted anybody else..."

"Kemp..." Millicent said. "Katha's been wonderful to me," he said finally. "I'd rather marry her than any one... except you, Millicent."

He looked from Katha, so vivid in the crimson dress, to Millicent. His black eyes softened. She wasn't as understanding or as sweet or as generous as Katha. But somehow

"You're dancing entirely too long with an old man. And I know I've been walking all over your slippers. Where's Kemp? He can't keep his eyes away from you." He saw Kemp and nodded to him to come and take Katha.

"Tired of dancing?" Katha asked. "I've discovered a very cozy corner in the hall with a deep, soft divan. If it isn't being used just now, shall we..."

"I am rather tired." He smiled. "The belle of the ball. That dress is stunning. Let's have some quiet. I want to talk to you and the only way I can is to take you out of here."

They found the corner deserted. Sighing, Katha said, "Uncle Richard is one of my favorite people but he doesn't dance enough to keep in practice," and she looked at the gold sandals and smiled.

Kemp lighted a cigarette. "Katha, again will you marry me? This is pretty direct and unromantic, I know, but let me go back with you tomorrow and tell them. We could be married there. If I notify my company that I'm going to be married, they'll give me some extra time. We could go anywhere you like and then go on to California. I have so much to put into a marriage that it couldn't possibly fail."

Tenderly she looked at him and put her hand over his.

It seemed that Millicent came suddenly out of nowhere. She was wearing her mink coat over a black dress and a small black hat with a veil. She was quite breathless as if she had been hurrying. The wind had whipped color into her face.

UNCLE RAY'S Corner

IN A JAPANESE HOME.

Among the fine persons I have met in my world travels is Mrs. Ichiko Kamichika Suzuki. She is kind of heart, and has given her life to working for peace and good will between nations, for the well being of mankind. She is known as one of the leading women of Japan, and is loved by the plain people who read her newspaper articles and her books.

"By the Japanese system of counting," said my hostess, "my elder daughter is 18 years of age, but by your system she is only 16!"

"In Japan, we say a child is one year old on the day of birth, and we add another year on each New Year's Day. My daughter was born on Christmas Day, so we counted her one year old that day. When New Year's came, we said she was two years old, though only a week had passed since her birth!"

I was pleased when Mrs. Suzuki invited me to her home for tea. There I met her two daughters and her son, who range in age from 12 to 16. At least that is the way we would count their ages.

"The Japanese system of counting," said my hostess, "my elder daughter is 18 years of age, but by your system she is only 16!"

"In Japan, we say a child is one year old on the day of birth, and we add another year on each New Year's Day. My daughter was born on Christmas Day, so we counted her one year old that day. When New Year's came, we said she was two years old, though only a week had passed since her birth!"

"That is where I worked," said Mrs. Suzuki, "while I was translating your book, 'The Child's Story of the Human Race,' into Japanese. Two editions have been published, each of two volumes. More than 40,000 copies of each volume have been sold in Japan."

At one side of the room, I noticed the "windowdoors" so common in Japanese homes. They are made of a light framework of wood covered with strong white paper. They slide back and forth. In winter they are kept closed most of the time, but light comes through the paper.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS

No. 46

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

REAL ESTATE-RENT

As Mary stood at the foot of the death-ladder, Dr. Brooks, her father, and Bob Mason, her fiancé, bowed their heads in resignation. There was a hope for her now. But the crafty mind of Jeff Biggers was actively seeking some means of saving her—and himself.

Jeff had seen the giant emeralds that glittered in the fingertips of the Tree-God. In the outer world they would fetch a fortune. Even in this moment, when death was near, Jeff's greedy soul ached for them. Suddenly an inspiration flashed through his thoughts.

The witch-doctor turned. "I will capture Tarzan," Jeff announced, "if you will give me the emeralds." Kagudo's frown changed into a sinister smile. "If you will capture the Tree-Demon alive, you shall have ten emeralds; if you kill him, only five!"

HEALTH PROGRAM CUTS DEATH RATE

Reduction of 9.9 Per Cent in State Reported by Dr. Abercrombie.

Georgia's expanded health program brought a reduction of 9.9 per cent in the death rate from all causes and an even more appreciable reduction in the number of fatalities from diseases amenable to health work. Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, director, reported to the State Board of Health yesterday.

Dr. Abercrombie told the board that it was the first year in Georgia's history that a reduction in the death toll had been made.

In addition the health director stressed the fact of a reduction of 7.5 per cent in the maternal mortality rate while the infant mortality rate decreased 10.4 per cent.

Fund Increased.

At the request of Governor Rivers the general assembly last year increased the appropriation to the board of health from $100,000 a year to $800,000 a year and the board expanded its program to such an extent that for the first time in the history of Georgia a state-wide program of disease control was undertaken.

Members of the health board reported themselves "elated" over the report.

"I have been a member of the board of health for a quarter of a century and chairman of it for the last ten years and I am very happy to say that I feel more real progress in health work is being made in Georgia now than ever before," Robert F. Maddox, of Atlanta, board chairman, said at the conclusion of the meeting to hear the report.

Health Work Stressed. Mr. Maddox said he felt the results obtained by the health department "more than justified" the increased appropriation.

"We have shown by the marked decrease in the death rate what organized health work can do," the chairman said. "We feel that the people also realize the worth of the health department now, too."

Chairman Maddox said the report of Dr. Abercrombie clearly showed that the counties which have a full-time health program are making better progress than those which have not fully developed their programs.

Excellent Co-operation. "There has been excellent co-operation from the counties in this work and the board feels that they should be given their full share of the credit for the work done," he said.

Mr. Maddox said the board took up the matter of improvement of the tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto and that a definite plan would be announced as soon as funds for it are available. Alto was given about $200,000 by the assembly as its share of the discontingued Western & Atlantic railroad warrants.

Report Detailed. Detailing his report, Dr. Abercrombie compared death rates from diseases amenable to health measures in Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and the Carolinas, showing this state had the greatest reductions (7.9 to 47.7 per cent) from typhoid, malaria, diphtheria, tuberculosis and infant mortality among the five states.

Georgia deaths from malaria dropped 62.1 per cent to 231, the smallest number of deaths in history of the health department, the report said. Typhoid fever decreased 29.4 per cent, tuberculosis 11.4 and diphtheria 15.

Dr. Abercrombie said the diphtheria decline resulted from free toxoid available for preschool children and free anti-toxin for treatment, adding "It is now confidently expected that diphtheria will soon cease to be a childhood menace."

Live births registered last year were 61,969 compared with 61,617 a year ago. Deaths from accidents and other violence declined 16.9 per cent to 3,224. Homicides increased 4.7 per cent to 620. Infantile paralysis deaths declined 33.3 per cent to 18.

'No Boating on Marietta Street!' Sign Recalled by C. J. Haden at 75

Retired Lawyer and Lumberman Objects to Who's Who Classification.

By JACK SPALDING III.

Charles J. Haden, retired lawyer and lumberman who objects to his classification as a capitalist by Who's Who in America, will celebrate his 75th birthday today with a family dinner at his white-columned Peachtree street home.

Mr. Haden, who has been identified with progressive and philanthropic movements in Georgia since he moved here in 1881, was born in Huntsville, Ala., and educated in the public schools there. Following a few years as a newspaperman in Gadsden and Birmingham, he came to Atlanta, then a town of 35,000 people, and more remarkable for the mud in its streets than anything else.

His reminiscences include signs used in the 80's on sticks in the mud hole that was Marietta street between Forsyth street and Five Points. They read, "Careful, two mules drowned here at 3 o'clock," and "City law, no boating on this spot."

Since his retirement from active business about 10 years ago, Mr. Haden has interested himself keenly in the plight of the southern farmer. He says their only solution is to adopt a policy of supporting themselves at home as far as possible and the removal of "damnable obstructions" against margarine made of cottonseed oil.

"This is but another phase in the war against the south waged by other sections of the nation since before the War Between the States," he said, "and the only way we can win is to appeal to city consumers to force their congressmen to vote for cheaper food . . . which is margarine made of southern cottonseed oil."

He calls the clause of the farm control bill that prevents the southern farmer from turning to dairying to any great extent on his cotton acreage taken out of production, an "outrage against the south, inserted by the milk lobbyists of the northwest."

Mr. Haden characterized The Constitution's Plant-to-Prosper contest as a great step in the right direction. "City" newspapers cannot afford to ignore the condition of the farmer," he remarked.

'RABBLE ROUSING' URGED AT HARVARD

Former Huey Long Aide's Suggestion 'Booed.'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 16. (AP)—A Harvard University audience tonight greeted with "boos" a suggestion from Gerald K. Smith, former aide to the late Louisiana senator, Huey P. Long, that Harvard establish "a chair of rabble-rousing."

Speaking at Harvard under the auspices of the "Young Conservatives," anti-administration youth movement, Smith advocated "rabble-rousing" as a cure for national economic ills.

As heckling increased in the audience, Smith shouted: "I'm telling you Harvard Reds that Louisiana University could come up here and take Harvard Yard in a minute."

GANNETT ASSAILED ON REORGANIZATION

Russell Says Publisher's Opposition Founded on Political Considerations.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—

Charging that Frank E. Gannett's letter campaign to defeat the pending executive reorganization bill is founded more on political considerations than on fears of a dictatorship, Senator Russell, of Georgia, has issued a lengthy formal statement in which he said he would support the bill providing he is given an opportunity to vote upon two or three perfecting amendments before final action is taken.

Senator Russell made known his position on the pending legislation after he had received a large number of telegrams and letters from the state urging him to vote against the measure. Many of these communications, he said, contained letters from Mr. Gannett, a northern newspaper publisher, asking that the senator's correspondents write him in regard to the bill.

Favors Reorganization. "Mr. Gannett states," Senator Russell declared, "that my position on this legislation is undecided. But for the appeal for financial support contained in the last paragraph of this letter, I would be at a complete loss to understand Mr. Gannett's objective."

"I have always favored the reorganization and simplification of our national government in the interest of efficiency. This was one of the chief planks in my platform when I was first a candidate for the United States senate in 1932."

"During my term of office as Governor of Georgia, with the assistance of the legislature, I undertook to reorganize and simplify the state government, and we were able to bring about some marked economies."

Advice Welcomed. The Georgian explained that he was always delighted to hear from his constituents on any public question, and "always welcomed their advice."

"I cannot believe, however," he said, "that all of those who have written and wired me to oppose this bill are familiar with the proposed reorganization legislation. Many of them have doubtless been deceived by the very misleading statement of the contents of the bill attached to Mr. Gannett's letter."

"As a matter of fact, legislation similar to that now pending was urged successively by Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, and while I have not checked the files of Mr. Gannett's newspapers, I feel sure that as a loyal Republican he strongly supported these three presidents' editorially, in their recommendations to congress. Further, the congress passed legislation granting powers to President Hoover in June, 1932, to reorganize the government, and more sweeping powers of reorganization than are contained in the present bill were temporarily granted to President Roosevelt in March, 1933."

Power Expired. "The power contained in the legislation referred to expired in both instances without having been abused, and the authority given the President to attempt to bring some order out of the present chaotic form of our national government, which is contained in the present bill, will expire before the end of the President's term of office."

"My only regret in regard to the previous grant of power is that it was not more liberally used to reduce and merge the more than 300 different bureaus and departments so as to reduce the cost of operating the national government. Even the bitterest critic of this administration will not deny that duplication of effort and the resultant waste is rampant at the present time. As a simple illustration, there are now 19 different agencies which are making surveys of one kind and another throughout the country. This is the kind of duplication of expense and effort that the bill is designed to correct, and I hope that it will be successful."

"I have no fear that the President will abuse the powers that are granted him in the pending bill, and I am convinced that his passage is in the public interest."

Just "any old coal" won't do for Stokers

If your automatic stoker is not functioning properly, it is likely due to the wrong kind of fuel.

It is not true that "any old coal" will do for stokers. For best results it should be specially prepared—the right kind, the right size, plus hot oil treated to insure cleanliness.

Creech special processed stoker coal is best for all automatic firing. Try it and see the difference.
